Those Drinks of Gin Massacres for Russia? A New Living Buddha We Drink Too Much, She Says

Current Events

By Arthur Brisbane

THE ENTIRE nation has read of a crime in Chicago, a monstrous, horrible, strange crime, carefully planned by two boys, intelligent, rich and well educated.

One detail of the crime that should sink into the public mind, tells how the two young murderers, in the course of a certain afternoon, "took a few drinks of gin." How much did other drinks of gin have to do with the dreadful crime?

HOW MANY crimes have been caused in the recent past, how many are to be caused in future under our system of prohibition? It does not prohibit, but makes contempt for law respectable, or at least excusable in the opinion of many, and it makes the drinking of whiskey and gin, illicitly obtained, almost heroic in the eyes of misguided youth.

THIS COUNTRY must find a way to stop bootlegging. Failing that, it must change its views on the efficacy of prohibition and try something else. There is no theory about bootlegging. No doubt that anybody can get all the gin or whiskey he wants at any time.

IT IS REPORTED in Poland that Jews are pouring out of Russia, especially the educated, mercantile and professional classes, seeking to establish themselves anywhere outside the Russian boundaries. They fear the worst slaughter in all their history, most dreadful pogroms, to come with the collapse of the Soviet government, which they anticipate.

TO THOSE outside Russia, fear of massacre there is strange. Anti-Semitic propaganda is energetic and violent in Germany and some other European countries. But in Russia, Trotzky, head of the army, the most powerful man since Lenin's death, is himself a Jew. With immigration to the United States cut to a minimum by our new laws, Russia may prove to be the safest refuge of the Jewish people, outside of England, France and one or two other enlightened countries.

WHERE IS Palestine, but to live there requires self-sacrifice, and it would be difficult for a sudden inrush of population to make a living. And in Palestine, outnumbered ten to one by hostile Arabs, the safety of the Jews depends upon the protection of the British under the mandate that makes England responsible for the preservation of peace.

THE JEWS in Palestine are well armed for self-protection, and have proved more than once that they will not tamely submit to attack in their own country.

However, outnumbered by ten to one by the Arabs, bitterly resentful of modern agricultural and industrial methods introduced by western Jews, the latter would have difficult fighting, should Britain ever withdraw from the mandate.

SOON, at Urga, capital of Mongolia, where dinosaur eggs are found and the "living Buddha" has his divine palace, there will be a great meeting of the "Hoorouldan," National Assembly made up of delegates from ninety half-independent dukedoms that now make up the surface government—the real government being exercised by Buddhist priests in the name of their tool, the "Living Buddha."

IF A CHAIN is no stronger than its weakest link, how weak is the chain of human civilization that includes among its links a living Buddha, and others supposed to hold, from various divine sources, full authority over men, such as the Caliph of the Mohammedans, or the ever youthful Vishnu?

RUSSIA will superintend the election of the new living Buddha, to replace Bogda Gregen, a direct descendant of Buddha, recently dead.

Bolshevism, it wise enough to

FIVE QUIT O'BRIEN'S OFFICE

Arthur D. Hill Among Those Who Have Resigned Following Reports of Shakeup

Following persistent reports of an impending reorganization of the district attorney's office, five resignations were handed in today.

District Attorney O'Brien declined to discuss the resignations or their import.

All the resignations go into effect July 1. Those who are leaving the office of Mr. O'Brien are:

ARTHUR D. HILL, assistant district attorney, appointed as a special assistant to prosecute in bank and brokers' cases. He will leave at the termination of the Max Mitchell trial.

Arthur D. Hill.

DANIEL T. O'CONNELL, assistant; he will return to private law practice as soon as his resignation goes into effect.

ROBERT ROBINSON, assistant Mr. Robinson, the oldest member of Robert Robinson.

D. T. O'Connell.

Mr. O'Brien's staff, also will go back to private practice.

The other two resignations came from messengers of the department, Joseph Cheever and J. Paul Canty.

There is an unconfirmed report that O'Connell may run for district attorney at the next election.

HOUSE VOTES TO QUIT ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Washington, June 2.—The House today adopted a resolution calling for sine die adjournment of Congress at 7 p. m. next Saturday. Senate concurrence is required.

Believing there was no chance of Congress acting at this session on his bill to abolish the United States Labor Board, Representative Berkeley, Democrat, of Kentucky, today withdrew the measure from further consideration.

Open Date in Baseball; Braves in New York Red Sox in West

Today is an open date in Boston baseball. The Braves play in New York, but there will be no game in the Hub as the Red Sox are traveling.

The Braves open here tomorrow against the Reds after a strenuous campaign in the West and eastern foreign territory.

The Reds will be the first western invader from the National League this season.

The Red Sox today are headed west, where tomorrow they open a four-game series at St. Louis. They will be idle today.

3 RUM BOATS IN FIERCE BATTLE WITH PATROL

New London, Conn., June 2.—Two small marine patrol boats operating out of New London for four hours and a half yesterday waged a fruitless battle against the rum-running yacht Pantesma, plying westward in the South with what is believed to have been 2,500 cases of liquor and the yachts Sioux and the Helen, travelling light and acting as scouts for the rum carrier.

While the three steam yachts, of large proportions, bore down on the customs boats and attempted to ram them or swamp them in the race, the prohibition agents, who came here from New York, poured bullets on the rum-runner, which however, was protected by armor plate, and finally escaped to sea.

The loss of the battle was due to the smallness of the Marine patrol boats Liberty and Number 6, which were unable to withstand the sea kicked up by the powerful yachts which tried to send them to the bottom. Nevertheless, the Liberty and the Number 6 kept up the fight until their supply of ammunition was exhausted and their fuel run low, compelling them to return to port.

The contest was the first real marine battle Long Island has witnessed since prohibition became effective. The lives of the customs crew were continually in peril as their boats scarcely escaped the approaching prows of the rum carrier and her scouts, but the men stood up under the attack without flinching.

Time and again the Liberty was within a few feet of the fleeting Pantesma, but for fear of being swamped, the customs men dared not board the boat which drew away from them and with her convoy succeeded in escaping.

DOYLE AND BOWEN CALLED

Summoned to East Cambridge as Witnesses in Coakley Trial

James H. Doyle, former State Senator and Boston alderman, and Patrick Bowen were summoned today as witnesses in the trial of Daniel H. Coakley and William J. Corcoran, charged with conspiracy.

Bowen and former Senator Doyle arrived at the East Cambridge court house a short time after Mayor James M. Curley, also as a witness, but in an appearance with George E. Phelan, a trustee of the George White Fund.

The Mayor was summoned a number of days ago. He reached the trial only a few minutes after Harry E. Levenson had completed his testimony in the case. Mayor Curley went to Sheriff Fanhann's office and waited, during a conference at the Superior Court bench that resulted in testimony of Coakley at the Nathan A. Tufts trial being admitted.

TESTIMONY READ

A brief cross-examination by Coakley lasting twenty-five minutes, ended Levenson's testimony. Today marked his third day on the stand. He denied that he was promised the post of assistant district attorney and denied also that District Attorney Readine had told him he was the connecting link between the cases in testimony and Coakley.

A request by District Attorney Reading that he then be allowed to introduce into this case Coakley's testimony in the Nathan A. Tufts trial resulted in a lengthy conference at Judge Whiting's bench, during which the jury was excused.

The testimony of Coakley was allowed to go and the district attorney began to read the three score pages of transcription.

Judge Whiting, following a conference on the admissibility of Coakley's testimony in the Tufts trial, said: "This testimony of Defendant Coakley's in the Tufts case, which the district attorney will now read in to be, in no way, taken against the defendant, Corcoran, being merely a statement of something that had occurred in the past. It has no bearing on the defendant Corcoran."

District Attorney Reading then read the Coakley testimony in the case of Attorney-General vs. Nathan A. Tufts. The questions were b

Chicago students and both sons of millionaires who confessed to the amazing murder of thirteen-year-old Robert Franks, also the son of a millionaire. Each of the youths today accuse the other of wielding the tape-wound chisel that crushed the life out of the youthful victim of the strange crime. A legal battle which is expected to rival that made for Harry K. Thaw was started today when attorneys for the boys applied for a writ of habeas corpus to allow them to interview their clients before the coroner's inquest.

Special Protection For Americans in Tokio

Tokio, June 2 (A.P.).—Precautions to protect American residents here and in the United States embassy, instituted because of high feeling incidental to American prohibition of Japanese immigration, are being maintained in view of the rising public indignation against Americans, according to the chief of police.

A special police guard will be provided along the route to be taken by Cyrus E. Woods, retiring ambassador, when he leaves the embassy for the railroad station to depart from Tokio, although it is expected any demonstration at that time would be friendly to Mr. Woods

RULE RAIL EXPRESS UNDER U. S. CONTROL

Washington, June 2.—The American Railway Express Company was held by the Supreme Court today to be subject to the jurisdiction and control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The question was raised in three cases brought by the United States, the Southern Express Company and the Southern Traffic League and others to set aside an injunction granted by the Federal District Court for northern Georgia restraining the commission from exercising jurisdiction.

9 ARE KILLED, 20 HURT, IN RAIL CRASH

Williamsport, Ind., June 2 (I.N.S.).—Nine persons were killed and between twenty and thirty injured early today when a crack Wabash passenger train crushed into a westbound freight train on a siding west of here. The known dead:

E. Phillips, bearing credentials of an employe of the Ford Motor Company of Detroit; Rabbi P. Goldberg, No. 203 East Broadway, New York; Mrs. W. H. Pauley, Decatur, Ill.; Mrs. Annie Halloway, Toledo; Walter L. Mitchell, St. Louis; G. M. Borechard, Peru, Ind., engineer of the freight, and George Koromo of St. Louis.

The train was northbound from St. Louis to Detroit and scheduled to arrive in Detroit at 7:15 today.

The passenger coaches were telescoped by the crash into the freight and many passengers scalded. The injured, several of whom may die, were rushed to hospitals in Williamsport and Danville.

TAFT ILL, UNABLE TO ATTEND COURT

Washington, June 2.—Chief Justice Taft notified his office today that because of illness he could not attend today's session of the Supreme Court. He has remained at his residence for several days on account of stomach trouble. It was said his illness was not serious.

Court Orders Them Taken From State Prosecutor and Placed in Sheriff's Custody

Chicago, June 2 (A.P.).—State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe announced today as attorneys began their battle in behalf of Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks, that he would seek two Grand Jury indictments against them tomorrow.

Indictments charging kidnaping for ransom and for murder, both punishable by death, will be asked, Mr. Crowe said.

The announcement came when petitions for writs of habeas corpus were presented in criminal court by counsel employed by the millionaire fathers of Leopold and Loeb. The court made the writs returnable forthwith and the prisoners were taken immediately into court.

The preliminary legal battle, into which the millions, estimated as high as $25,000,000, of the Leopold and the Loeb families will be available in the effort to save the boys from the gallows, is intended merely to permit legal counsel to consult with them. The attorneys say they do not expect to free them.

SENT TO JAIL

Chief Justice Caverly continued the hearing on the writ until June 8 and ordered the boys sent to jail without bond, placing them in the custody of the sheriff as sought by the defense attorneys.

Having won their first legal skirmish, counsel immediately went into conference with the prisoners. They intimated that the two youths would not be allowed to testify at the inquest.

Leopold was unbroken and appar-

30 PROVIDENCE SALOONS PADLOCKED

Providence, June 2.—Thirty saloons and "speakeasies" were padlocked by the police today in a drive that the police heads declare will result in drying up "the wettest city in the country." Closing of 300 saloons and surreptitious drinking places in Providence is aimed at by the "sponge squad" that started the mopping up process today. A large squad of picked men is engaged in the work, each man carrying five padlocks.

EX-SENATOR DOYLE AND BOWEN CALLED IN COAKLEY TRIAL

CURLEY IS ALSO ON HAND

Special Assistant Attorney-General Henry F. Hurlburt.

Q.—Do you know a woman named Brownie Kennedy? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever see her? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know where she now is? A.—I have no idea.

Q.—Did you receive a check for $88,000? A.—I did.

Q.—What was the date? A.—June 5, the check was dated June 4.

Q.—What did you do with the check? A.—There were two checks and I deposited them in the Beacon Trust Company.

Q.—One check was from Hiram Abrams for $52,250 and the other from David Stoneman for the remainder, totalling $35,000? "Yes, totalling $35,000.

Q.—Just before you received this amount, did you pay out $2,500? A.—Yes, to Henry C. Sawyer.

Q.—When? A.—June 4, in cash.

PAID IN CASH

Q.—Where did you pay the money to Mr. Sawyer? A.—I did not pay it personally. Mr. Sugrue took it down to his office.

Q.—What did you receive in exchange? A.—A letter.

Q.—Did you pay out any money after that? A.—I did.

Q.—The amount referred to by Mr. Aylward? A.—Yes, $7,000.

Q.—In check or cash? A.—Cash.

Q.—Did you receive all the papers from Mr. Aylward? A.—Yes. I asked him for all the papers in the matter and he gave them to me.

Q.—When did you last see the papers? A.—September, 1917, in my office.

Q.—When did you pay Aylward? A.—June 22.

Q.—Have you got here the check you used in drawing that money from the bank? A.—It is in my office, in a voucher file.

VOUCHER STOLEN

Q.—Did that disappear with the other papers? A.—No, only the Abrams' voucher disappeared with the papers at the time Mr. Cabot's representative was in my office, stealing papers. The voucher was among my debt files. I saw a list of papers which Cabot desired stolen. I got it in Mr. Holmes' hand and it included the Mishawum papers. Then I looked for the Mishawum papers in my files and found they were gone.

Q.—When was that? A.—At the time of the Cabot trial.

Q.—Did you pay out any other money? A.—Eight thousand dollars to Mr. Clark in cash.

Q.—Did you get a receipt? A.—I did.

Q.—Where is the receipt? A.—Wherever the other papers are. It was with the Mishawum vouchers.

Q.—What was your next payment? A.—$14,250 on June 13 to Mr. Harry Sawyer in settlement of a claim.

Q.—What was the claim? A.—It was a case against Jesse Lasky.

Q.—You had already paid Mr. Sawyer $2,500? A.—The $2,500 was for services.

Q.—What were the services? A.—I learned he had a claim. I told him to visit the chief of police in Woburn and I told him to talk with people around Woburn. I said I believed people were suggesting that it was a holdup. We went to Woburn and talked around a lot, chiefly with the chief of police, who took my view.

ANY AMOUNT

Q.—Has the receipt for this amount disappeared? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the claim? A.—By a husband that Jesse Lasky mistreated his wife.

Q.—Was it a legitimate claim? A.—Yes.

Q.—Worth $14,250? A.—Worth any amount under the contract I had.

Q.—What other amount did you pay out to lawyers? A.—$15,000 to Daniel H. Sugrue. For services in this case.

Q.—Was he in your employ? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was his salary? A.—$5,000 per year.

Q.—When did you pay this amount to Mr. Sugrue? A.—A few days after the matter was all cleaned up. The payment was in bonds.

Q.—Was the $35,000 from Stoneman in bonds? A.—No. I used most of that amount to pay bills.

Q.—What were the bonds? A.—Chicago Junction preferred.

Q.—What did you pay for other claims against the moving picture men? A.—None.

PAID WOMEN

Q.—Is this right, then: $2,500 to Sawyer, $14,250 to Sawyer $7000 to Aylward and $8000 to Clark? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you pay any amount to women? A.—Yes. I do not know to whom.

Q.—Was it in cash? A.—All was paid in cash but I did not pay any personally to the lawyers and to Mr. Sugrue.

Q.—Read over the names in this book and see if you recognize any of the names of women? A.—I recognize none of them.

Q.—Did you receive receipts or releases from women? A.—I received receipts and releases from everyone I gave money to or to whom money was given on my behalf by Joyce or Sugrue.

Q.—Can you tell how much you paid to women as individuals? A.—No.

$31,000 NET

Q.—Now you have accounted for $44,500 whereas you received $88,000? A.—I paid $9,000 more for releases and expenses. The net amount was about $31,000 or $32,000. I can't give it accurately. All I know is that the net amount to me was $31,000 or $32,000.

Q.—Go kept that amount as your fee? A.—Yes. After the necessary payments the balance was my fee.

The testimony as read today showed Coakley couldn't recall definitely whether he turned over the releases to Stoneman or Levenson. His impression was that he turned them over to Levenson. He tried to get releases from all the girls who were at Mishawum Manor the night of the party.

He said he realized that the place was a resort of questionable character and that he checked up five different girls who had been there with the motion picture men, but denied having any list of the girl inmates of the Brownie Kennedy resort.

Hurlburt asked particularly about releases obtained from Theresa M. Sears and Beasie McDonald. He replied that Captain Herbert Gordon, formerly connected with the Cambridge police force, had obtained the release from Miss Sears. His recollection was that Joyce had procured the releases from the Sears and McDonald girls.

He was asked why he didn't make these large payments by check instead of cash. His reply was that he didn't care to have any evidence left where his clients were concerned as he had learned of checks being photographed as evidence.

When asked why he should fear any evidence if the transactions were legitimate, he replied that he wouldn't care to have one of his checks for a large amount in the possession of any women who might make use of them.

MET TUFTS

He claimed that the only improper thing done where the motion picture men were concerned was the illegal procurement of liquor at the Mishawum Manor. He admitted that he considered the claims phoney and fictitious and a mere holdup of the motion picture men, but notwithstanding that made settlements.

He told of an interview which he had with Tufts in May, 1917, when he was accompanied by Harry Asher, Hiram Abrams and Walter Green.

He explained that these were the men who had been at the party at Mishawum Manor and he thought it best to let Tufts meet them personally, as they were decent and respectable business men they were.

The testimony showed that Tufts reply was "They may be decent but in a little village like Woburn it is not proper to carry out tenderloin actions such as are carried out in large cities."

Coakley testified that Tufts agreed to permit him to establish the innocence of his clients if he could before Tufts would take any action and gave Coakley until June 4. Coakley admitted that he did not take any further steps to assure Tufts of the innocence of the motion picture men because Sawyer had told him that the chief of police had cleared his clients with Tufts.

STONEMAN'S PLEA

The testimony told of a conference which David Stoneman had with Coakley trying to induce him to continue as counsel for the motion picture men. In this interview Coakley told Stoneman that the motion picture men were pikers and that Abrams had failed to forward his retainer of $10,000 which Coakley had demanded.

Coakley said he didn't want anything further to do with the case. Stoneman argued that the motion picture men were good fellows and not the type of men that Coakley thought and interceded in behalf of Joe Levenson, who was a relative of Stoneman's wife, saying, "Do it for me and for Joe Levenson, who is related to my wife."

Honeymoon Delayed

MRS. HORACE BELCHER

Honeymoon plans of Miss Linda Davey of Winthrop and Horace Belcher were disrupted when friends of the couple executed a double kidnaping following the ceremony.

The brand new Mrs. Belcher was whisked off in a limousine with doors locked and carried to Deer Cove Inn, Swampscott, while the license bridegroom was carted away by friends who offered to help chase the fleeing car in which the bride was an unwilling passenger.

All's well now, however, and the couple are finally on their way to Niagara Falls. They will make their home in Baltimore.

GIRL IN WOODS TO GET LIVING BY HANDS

Mountain Lakes, N. J., June 2.—A note saying that she was going to demonstrate they could live by their hands alone in the woods was left early yesterday in the home of Mrs. James R. Crowle by Miss Helen Cole, a week-end guest, who with Courtney Carter disappeared after the family retired Saturday night, Mrs Crowle said today.

State police who have been searching the woods for the couple organized a posse under Trooper Schlotz today to continue the hunt.

Mrs. Crowle said she had known Miss Cole two years and that her home had been in California, but recently she had lived in New York city, where she was an art student.

During a week-end party discussion of a novel of two people living by their hands in the wilderness Miss Cole is declare she could do it. She is believed to have induced Carter to accompany her, both their rooms being found empty yesterday morning.

Carter came to the Crowle home with Miss Cole, but was said today by Frank Dekum, the girl's uncle, to have been only a casual friend. Both Dekum and Mrs. Crowle scouted the theory that the pair eloped.

Miss Cole is twenty-four, bobbed-haired, and wore a yellow evening gown when she left, a check-up on clothing in her room showed. She is said to have been a lover of the outdoors and believed to be capable of taking care of herself. Carter is a few years older.

RULING MAY RE OPEN BIG PACKERS CASE

Washington, June 2.—A decision that may have the effect of reopening the whole field of litigation involved in the Big Five packers consent decree case was handed down today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The decision reverses a lower court ruling. Under the consent decree, entered into between the packers and Attorney-General Palmer in 1920 the packing companies were to divest themselves of various collateral properties, including their stock yards and grocery distribution agencies. The California Canneries in asking to be heard, declared they were vitally interested because Armour & Co. had contracted with them to market 52 per cent. of their entire output. If the decree were permitted to stand, the business of the canneries, they insisted, would be materially injured.

SOMERVILLE CHURCH DRIVE GETS $20,000

Announcement was made today that $20,000 had been subscribed by parishioners of St. Catherine's parish, Somerville, on the opening day of the $100,000 drive for a new parochial school.

One Drive—One Week—$100,000 is the slogan of the workers. The minimum pledge to be accepted from each wage-earner in the parish is $50, to be paid within six months. The drive will last throughout this week and a large clock recording the results of the drive has been placed on the church lawn. The drive was formally opened yesterday when the pastor of the church, Rev. James J. O'Brien, made a personal appeal to all the parishioners at the five masses in the church to make the drive a success. Dr. Charles E. Mongan is chairman of the committee.

1 AMERICAN FREED; CHINESE HOLD 10 MORE

Peking, June 2.—Dr. H. G. Miller, an American Missionary and Dr. Jaffray, an Englishman, who were seized by Chinese bandits in Kwang-Si province, have been released, but the fate of ten other Americans and ten British missionaries is still in doubt, it was reported from Kwellin today.

Dr. Miller and Dr. Jaffray were liberated to arrange for terms of release for the others. Rex Ray, an American missionary, who was captured while on a rescue trip, and Dr Crane, an Englishman are detained by the Chinese.

TURKS ARE WARNED BY BRTISH ENVOY

Constantinople, June 2 (A.P.)—Sir Percy Cox, British High Commissioner for Mesopotamia, today informed Fethi Beyi speaker of the Turkish Assembly and head of the Turkish delegation which has been negotiating with a British delegation regarding the Mosul district, that he had been instructed to return to London unless the Turkish government modified the attitude it had taken in demanding complete rendition of the disputed territory.

TEX RICKARD BAILED IN FIGHT FILM CASE

Newark, N. J., June 2 (I.N.S.).—Tex Rickard, New York fight promoter, and two other individuals and a corporation pleaded not guilty today to indictments charging them with conspiracy to transport out of New Jersey films of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. They were released on bail of $2,500. No date for trial was set.

WARRANT FOR ENGINE DRIVER IN FATALITY

Judge Duff of Municipal Court issued a warrant today for Driver Fred Toner of Engine No. 6, Leverett street. Toner's engine Saturday ran down and killed John W. Sullivan, seventy-seven, of No. 18 Chestnut street, Charlestown, while crossing Causeway and Nashua streets on way to a fire.

Toney was following another engine when two women stepped out from the left side of the street. In avoiding the women Toner drove into Sullivan. Judge Duff said, in issuing the warrant, he did so because Toner should not have been following the other engine so closely.

Brookline Clubman Weds His Former Secretary

Albert J. Meserve, prominent clubman and vice-president of the Brookline Trust Company, was married today in the rectory of St. Aidan's Church to Miss Mae Kelleher, his former secretary.

Her husband owns a richly-appointed home at No. 175 Middlesex road, Brookline, and is a member of the Exchange, Chestnut Hill Country, Longwood Tennis and Chestnut Hill Golf clubs.

CARRIERS AT FUNERAL OF POSTAL OFFICIAL

A delegation of twenty-four carriers and clerks at the West Somerville post office, in charge of George W. Jones, today attended the funeral of Philip Aberle, late superintendent of the West Somerville post office, who died Saturday at his home, No. 49 Mystic avenue, East Somerville. Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Somerville, officiated. Burial was in Cambridge Cemetery.

Mr. Aberle is survived by a daughter, Miss Rosa J. Aberle and two brothers, Charles F. and Henry W. Aberle of Charlestown.

Two Caught in Hotel Boring Their Way to Next Room

Paul Stengel and Edward W. Muse, said by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien to be much-wanted members of a gang of loft workers, were arrested in the Hotel Lenox while in the act, according to the police, of boring their way into an adjoining room.

Stengel and Muse were charged with having burglar's tools in their possession and with attempted breaking and entering.

At the request of the district attorney Judge Duff set bail at $15,000 in each case.

RUTH MILLER BRIDE OF ROBERT McLEAN

Miss Ruth A. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Miller of No. 16 Arthur street, Somerville, became the bride today of Robert A. McLean, son of Deputy Chief Walter M. McLean of the Boston Fire Department, and Mrs. McLean, No. 59 Dracut street, Ashmont, in St. Ann's Church, Somerville. Rev. Francis J. Butler performed the ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial mass that followed. Miss Josephine B. Miller, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid and Walter McLean, brother of the groom, was best man. Following a wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. McLean will reside at No. 73A Bonair street, Somerville.

COMEDIAN TINNEY'S LOVE MESSAGES ARE SPURNED BY IMOGENE

HE TRIES TO MAKE UP WITH GIRL

But Miss Wilson's Sister Calls Policemen When He Threatens Her

New York, June 2.—The love that Imogene Wilson, Broadway's most beautiful chorus girl, holds for Frank Tinney, the caveman comedian who beat her into insensibility last Tuesday night, is slowly ebbing away.

Tinney wants to make up with Imogene. Perhaps it is because he loves her and wants her—but then again perhaps it is because he sees the handwriting on the wall and realizes, if the case comes to trial, his chances for future Broadway stardom are dim.

After he had beaten the beautiful Imogene and kicked her maid, Carrie Sneed, the mother of five children, in the back and the stomach, Tinney grinned as he was thrown out of the apartment by a reporter. When the case came up with Tinney under arrest—he again grinned and boasted that Imogene would never appear against him.

GRIN DISAPPEARS.

Saturday Tinneys' grin was gone. His "sweetheart—that—I—love," as he once called her, rose from her sickbed and appeared against him. Her attorney had him served with civil suit for damages amounting $100,000. And the colored maid, Carrie, swears that she, too, will ask Tinney served with the necessary legal documents within the next few days.

Now Tinney is trying to gain [illegible] before the case comes up in next Friday.

Bobby Gray, Tinney's colored valet, has called at the fair Imogene's apartment with love messages. But he was met at the door by Mrs. A. C. Rondeau, Imogene's sister, who slammed the door in his face.

Undaunted, he tried telephoning the pretty girl, with the same results. Finally Tinney himself called on the telephone.

TINNEY TELEPHONES.

Rondeau answered, saying that Imogene, Tinney said:

"Miss dear, I don't want you ever me if it will cause you trouble. I love you and our future will be a far different one in the future. I wouldn't give you up for anything in the world."

But he was informed that he was not speaking to his Bubbles. And Mrs. Rondeau asserts, Tinney became threatening. He said he was in the neighborhood, and unless they all left the apartment but Imogene he was coming up in person, superintend the job.

Mrs. Rondeau called the West Sixty-eighth street police station and shortly after two plain clothes men stood in front of the Wilson apartment awaiting for Tinney to make good his threat to call.

HIS CAREER IN DANGER.

Perhaps Tinney's change of heart toward Imogene is a result of a conference with lawyers and learning from them that he probably will be eliminated from the theatrical business unless he settles out of court the case brought against him by Imogene.

A new attorney, Frederick A. Ware, entered into the negotiations, which find H. G. Herman, counsel for Miss Wilson, insisting on payment of the full amount ($100,000) asked and Monroe Goldstein, Tinney's counsel of record, inclining to the opinion that little reduction of this demand is to be hoped for. Ware and Tinney were in conference for several hours in a resort on West Forty-fifth street, known only to Broadway initiates.

Ware, it is understood, is excofficio arbiter for both sides and was brought into the case by Goldstein.

BLOCKED IN MOVIES.

In addition to the physical damages inflicted on Imogene's person by Tinney's boots and teeth during his alleged attack on her in her apartment, her civil suit, it was learned will be based on a process of professional intimidation by which Tinney, by his own ends, checked the Follies beauty's career at a moment when it was about to lift her to stardom in the films.

Imogene was offered a contract in a film projected by Mary Pickford. Her tall, slender loveliness being considered a good screen foil for Mary's petite charm.

Negotiations had advanced to the point of a signing of contracts when Tinney, who had just thrust himself into the girl's life, assumed charge of her business affairs.

He called the film agents on the telephone and said:

"Look here. Anyone who wants to do business with 'Bubbles' does business with me, see?"

Thereupon he notified the agents that he would consent to no contract that would take the girl to Hollywood, 3000 miles away from his caresses.

Millionaire Baker Started as Grocer Boy at $2 a Week

New York, June 2.—George F. Baker, who began working seventy years ago as a grocer boy in Troy, N. Y., for $2 a week, and after more than 60 years in Wall Street, has become one of the four richest men in this country, has added to his list of public benefactions an endowment of $5,000,000 for the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

His fortune is estimated at more than $300,000,000. He is grouped with John D. Rockefeller, Henry Ford and Andrew W. Mellon as the four richest men in the United States. Mr. Baker, who is 84 years old, is still active in business and is chairman of the board of the First National Bank of New York.

APPEAL TO R. I. BANKS TO 'SAVE STATE'S HONOR'

Providence, June 2.—The board of directors of the Providence Chamber of Commerce today appealed to the banks and trust companies of this city and State through the Rhode Island Bankers' Association to take immediate steps to meet the emergency arising from the protracted failure of the General Assembly to make appropriations by advancing cash to maintain the State institutions until January 1, 1925.

Rhode Island is "confronted by an acute situation which seriously affects its honor and credit and endangers the lives of its dependents," states the appeal, which passed in no way upon the merits of the partisan controversy in the State Senate, which has deadlocked that branch and stalled practically all legislation since the opening of the session on January 1.

The appeal states that it is clear "from the attitude of those who oppose our State Senate that no legislative relief can be expected for many months," and declares that such a situation must not be allowed to continue.

YOUNG BANDIT ROBS SOMERVILLE STORE

A seventeen-year-old holdup man, dressed as a truck driver, backed Soghmon Essian, one of the proprietors of the Puritan Fruit Store at No. 511 Highland avenue, Somerville, to the rear of the store, at the point of a pistol, and rifled the cash register of $30, according to a report made to Somerville police today.

Essian was alone in the store when the young man entered. Jacob Bezirdjian, the other proprietor, reported the holdup to the police, and gave a good description of the culprit.

LIQUOR RAID HOLDS UP STREET TRAFFIC

A crowd watching liquor officers at work blocked traffic for some time on Washington st., South End, today. Liquor Officer Mahoney, aided by a number of patrolmen, entered the barber shop of Edward Spanley, 2001 Washington street, in search of booze, but nothing was found.

At No. 1-A Madison street, tailor shop of Gabriel Spanley, father of Edward and of Edward's home, No. 2 Madison street, 40 to 50 gallons of alcohol and 2,000 empty bottles were seized.

FRACTURES SKULL BY FALL IN SUBWAY

Harry Knight, 30, of No. 21 Northfield street, Roxbury, fell in the Park street subway today, sustaining a fractured skull. He was taken to the Relief Hospital, where his condition is serious. Knight was waiting for a car and was attacked with vertigo.

FREE GOLDMAN AS FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

Man Acquitted in the Warren Bank Case Wins Another Legal Victory in Court

Worcester, June 2.—Abraham Goldman of Chicago, who was freed by a jury in Superior Criminal Court last Thursday after a trial on conspiracy in connection with the wrecking of the Warren National Bank, was discharged today in central district court when arraigned as a fugitive of justice from Buffalo.

Goldman is wanted in Buffalo on a charge of larceny of $127,000 lost by the Niagara Life Insurance Company as a result of the Warren Bank crash. He has been in jail since his discharge in Superior Court. When he appeared in district court today, his daughter, Miss Minnie H. Goldman, who defended him in Superior Court, raised the point that he was not a fugitive from justice because he came here of his own volition as a government witness and did valiant in the Warren case.

The court ruled that there was no procedure for transporting him from this State to New York, without his waiving extradition, under the circumstances and Goldman refused to waive extradition. Goldman and his daughter left Worcester immediately after the court proceedings.

BOXING CHAMP TO BE WED TONIGHT

Tom Kirby, national amateur boxing champion and pride of Roxbury, is deserting the boxing ring today to look for a wedding ring, and his pretty sweetheart, Ruth McDermott, is all a-flutter over her trousseau.

Tonight they are to be married at the rectory of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury.

Ruth disappeared last week for several days after her aunt, Mrs.

Tom Kirby

Ruth McDermott

M. A. Burns, had refused to allow her to wed the champion on account of their youth. Each is 19. She returned when the aunt relented and promised a wedding.

The ceremony will be followed by a small reception to intimate friends at Mrs. Burns' home, No. 531 Dudley street.

GIRL INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

A ride on the rear seat on a motorcycle ended disastrously for Hazel Stark, [illegible] of 678 Tremont street, Boston. She was riding with Herbert M. Stewart of No. 592 Tremont street when the motorcycle collided with the automobile of Maurice Curtin of [illegible] 26 Jackson street, Cambridge, at Massachusetts and Bridge avenues, North Cambridge. The girl was taken to the Cambridge City Hospital suffering from injuries to her head and back. She will recover.

RUTH ANDREWS GOES BACK TO BROOKLYN

Ruth Andrews, titian haired model who recently was given a suspended sentence on a charge of "shaving" bad checks, was in court again today after being arrested by officers of the Dudley street station on a similar charge.

Ruth was turned over to Special Officer Di Sessa of the Dedham street station who holds a default warrant for her. She will probably be sent back to Brooklyn, N. Y., where both the police and [illegible] are said to be looking for her.

ARREST SUSPECT IN N. Y. TENEMENT FIRE

New York, June 2.—Louis Wassrvogel was arrested on a charge of arson early today following an East Side tenement fire which drove eighteen families from their homes. Wassrvogel was suspected when he went to a hospital and asked for treatment for burns on his hands.

Mrs. Anna Manchuck was injured when she jumped from the third story of the burning tenement today with her one-year-old child in her arms. The child was not hurt.

LINER AUSONIA PUTS BACK AFTER MISHAP

Plymouth, Eng., June 2.—The Cunard Liner Ausonia, with 345 passengers, which left Plymouth for Cherbourg and London, is returning here in consequence of a breakdown in her machinery. The Cherbourg passengers were transferred to the Lancastria.

ANCIENTS AT KING'S CHAPEL

OFFICERS DECORATING TABLET AT HISTORIC CHURCH

One of today's impressive events in the 286th anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was the decorating of the tablet at King's Chapel. In photo are, left to right, Colonel Winter of Washington Minute Men, a guest of the day, and Captains McKenna and Robert Kayne.

ANCIENTS HOLD THEIR 286TH ANNIVERSARY

Famous Military Organization Has Busy Program That Will Close With Big Banquet

This was the Ancients big day of the year.

Starting with luncheon at Faneuil Hall Armory, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company had a program that carried through the day and ends with a reception and banquet at the Copley-Plaza Hotel tonight.

This was the 286th anniversary of the noted military organization, oldest in America. Three members of the Washington Minute Men, the Capitol's oldest military organization, are in Boston for the festivities.

One of their number, Colonel Winter, with Captain McKenna and Captain Robert Kayne of the local organization, decorated the tablet at King's Chapel early today.

HORSE INVITED TO DRINK LOSES IN BOOZE RAID

Special Officers Roche, Daley and Troy of the headquarters booze squad found picking poor in the South End. Finally they came to a sales stable where horses were being offered to the public.

The nifty sniffers from Pemberton square detected the odor of moonshine mingling with the aroma of the stable. The cops stepped in among the crowd.

"What do you want for that goat?" asked officer Roche.

"Eighteen dollars, and she's a bargain," said the owner.

"Not worth it," said Roche.

"Got the blind staggers," said Daley.

"Looks like Spark Plug," said Troy.

"She's all right," insisted the owner. "Just got a little black water. Shot of booze will pep her up in fine shape."

"Let's try it out," said Officer Roche.

The way led to the office of an express company. "Guy here says a shot of booze will fix this relic," said Officer Daley. "Got anything?"

"Got some moonshine," said the proprietor. A sale was made and Cataldo taken into custody.

"How about the horse?" asked the owner; "don't she get a drink?"

"Be back tomorrow," said Officer Roche. "Need it for evidence today."

"Tomorrow my eye," said the owner. "She won't live that long."

CHURCH OFFICIAL HELD FOR THEFT

Charles H. Duncan, of Northampton street, was in Roxbury Court today charged with theft of approximately $3,500. He is treasurer of the Ebenezer Baptist Church at No. 157 Springfield street. The money was raised by members of the church to pay off a debt and in expectation of a sudden call for payment was not deposited but placed in a lock box in a Roxbury bank. Duncan is accused of removing the cash. Continuance was granted until Thursday.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW GETTING BETTER

New York, June 2.—Chauncey M. Depew announced today that he had completely recovered from the cold which had caused him to be confined to his home for several days. He said he would resume work at his office tomorrow morning. Mr. Depew was unable to attend a belated celebration of his ninetieth birthday last Saturday night.

FILLS TANK AND PAYS FOR STOLEN AUTO

Salem, June 2.—Found: The courteous automobile thief. A car owned by Robert Miller of Marblehead was "borrowed" Saturday night from in front of a house in Hawthorne street. The machine was found today in Bridge street. The tank had been filled with gasoline and there was a $2 bill pinned to the steering wheel.

6 MORE REALTY CURB BROKERS FINED $5

If the officers of Station 2 keep arresting them it will pay the members of the "curb" Stocks and Real Estate Exchange" to hire an office. Patrolmen Crowley and Doherty nabbed six of the "curb" brokers today in front of City Hall Annex. They were fined $5 each by Judge Murray in Municipal Court.

23 CHILDREN DIE IN SCHOOL FIRE TRAP

Boston Girl One of Victims; 21 Seriously Hurt in Coast Calamity

Los Angeles, June 2.—At least twenty-three persons, nearly all of them children, perished in a fire which destroyed the Hope Development School for Mentally Deficient Girls at Playa del Roy.

Twenty-three bodies had been discovered today. Forty others were injured in the fire, including 18 girl inmates, six firemen and a dozen civilians who aided in fighting the flames.

SCHOOL A FIRE-TRAP

Officials of the State Board of Charities and Corrections declared that they had some time ago refused to renew their endowment of the school on the ground that it was a fire-trap. District Attorney Asa Keyes promised a speedy and thorough inquiry.

Scheduled or already under way are three separate inquiries into the cause of the fire and the reason why the children, apparently, were housed in a building of super-inflammable construction, with few, if any, safeguards against fire. These inquiries will be conducted by the city of Venice, the county authorities and the state board of charities.

38 GIRLS IN BUILDING.

A brigade of shovelers of official and unofficial capacity is still engaged in turning over, bit by bit, the huge mass of charred cinders and littered refuse, to determine whether any more bodies are there.

Thirty-eight girls, ranging in age from four to 26 years, were in the home when the fire broke out. Two matrons, Mrs. Drew Thomas, and Mrs. Anna M. Rademaker, were in charge, and present as guest was Wilfred Jacobs, 12-year-old adopted son of Mrs. Mary E. Jacobs, who operated the home.

One of the dead girls is Betty Rand, 22 years old, whose institutional record gave her nearest relative as a sister, Alice Rand, and the latter's residence as Boston.

Richard C. Curtises to Be Prominent on North Shore, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

PROMINENT members of this Summer's colony at Manchester-by-the-Sea will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Curtis.

These interesting young people have already opened for the season their recently purchased Summer home at Smith's Point, which was formerly the George D. Howe estate.

Mrs. Richard C. Curtis

Like his father, Charles P. Curtis, and his brother, Charles P. Curtis, Jr., Mr. Curtis has won considerable renown as a hunter of big game. In fact, it was only a few months ago that the Richard Curtises returned from a very colorful journey around the world.

Their trip included a trek into the African jungle with Charles Curtis, Sr. and Junior. The party bagged some specimens which are hardly distinguished for their good-nature and affability.

Though Mrs. Curtis—she was formerly Miss Anita Grosvenor—remained more or less on the outskirts of the jungle, she found things quite exciting enough. Later she and Mr. Curtis continued their travels through India and China before returning home.

Mrs. Curtis is a sister of Theodore F. Grosvenor, who married Miss Anita Strawbridge of Philadelphia.

APROPOS of the North Shore—

Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Sears of Beacon street are being royally welcomed back to the Shore after spending several Summers at Dark Harbor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Sears have already opened their Pride's Crossing place which they leased during the past two or three seasons. In other years the place has been the scene of numerous affairs, for their daughter, Mrs. James J. Minot, Jr., (Miriam Sears) has been much to the fore in her jolly Vincent Club set.

The former Miss Sears is not only a singer of rare charm, but a composer of no mean ability, and she is responsible for more than one of the lilting strains in various Vincent productions.

MISS BARBARA BRADFORD

Miss Barbara Bradford is one of the buds of the past season who will assist at the fete being staged next Saturday to benefit the Travellers' Aid Society. (Photo by Marceau)

BEING far-sighted as well as original, the committee in charge of the street fair and fete to be held at the Webster estate in Chestnut Hill next Saturday, are making their plans so that the affair may be held whether it rains or not.

Nell Baldwin

In case the skies do more than merely frown, the entire program will be carried out according to schedule with the large barns and garages of the estate providing the setting instead of the lawns and terraces.

Miss Nell Baldwin, Miss Barbara Bradford, Miss Harriet Boyden, Miss Mary Otis and Miss Polly Webster are a few of the buds of the past Winter who will assist at the fete.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE D. WIDENER have taken the F. Lothrop Ames villa at Newport for the coming season.

Mrs. Henry L. Higginson will arrive on the North Shore early in the season to open "Sunset Hill," her West Manchester place.

Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, who was of the fashionable throng attending the recent races at Belmont Park, will spend the Summer with Mr. Carhart at their country home in Tuxedo Park.

Among the month's early arrivals at Beverly Farms will be Mrs. Randolph Prothingham, who spent last Summer in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Shurtleff of Mt. Vernon street are opening their country place at Ipswich early this week.

SEARCH WOODS FOR LOST GIRL AND YOUTH

Morristown, N. J., June 2.—A posse was organized here today by state police to continue the search for Miss Helen Cole, and Charles Carter, who have not been seen since they went into the woods near Mountain Lakes early yesterday to hunt rabbits. Miss Cole, who is said to have been stopping at the Hotel Marlton in New York City, and Carter were week-end guests at the home of friends.

SON IS BORN TO JOE O'CONNELL

Joseph P. O'Connell wore a broader smile than usual, and it was not because of a 350-yard drive on the Wollaston links either. "It's a boy," he stated in explanation. "Not so much of a novelty either, as I now have seven sons and a couple of daughters sandwiched in. However, there is always room for one more."

Mrs. O'Connell and the unnamed are doing finely.

PLATFORM WAR IMPERILS G.O.P. HARMONY

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Washington, June 2.—The Republican National Convention today faces a platform fight which threatens to leave a fatal party schism.

The fight is between President Coolidge and the Congress.

A party must stand or fall on its record. It must sing its praises in its platform. There is no other place so good to do it. Any failure to "point with pride" will result in the public assumption that the party is neither proud of itself nor of its record.

President Coolidge and Congress have made so many fights against each other in the past few weeks that the Republican leaders charged with drafting the platform now fear that the Cleveland convention will be forced to choose between the record of the President and the record of the Republicans in Congress.

If the convention attempts to approve the party's record it will find itself in the strangely inconsistent position of indorsing the Republican President who vetoed the bonus bill and the Republican members of Congress who passed it over his veto.

If then would approve its party members in Congress who passed the Immigration bill, containing Japanese exclusion, and the Republican President who signed it only after he had declared the exclusion section written into the bill by the almost unanimous vote of the Republican majority was "unnecessary and deplorable."

FRENCH REVEAL FULL STORY OF MORGAN LOAN

$100,000,000 Advance Used to Save Franc; Treasury Not Engaged in the Transaction

Paris, June 2 (A.P.)—The French government today issued a statement giving the fullest details as yet published of the $100,000,000 advance made by J. P. Morgan & Co. to the French government in connection with efforts to stabilize the franc.

The statement recalls the break in the value of the franc March 11, when the French government obtained the power to draw on J. P. Morgan & Co. for $200,000,000 "to be repaid in six months or to be settled in gold."

J. P. Morgan & Co., the statement continues, demanded assurances that governmental measures would definitely be taken to convince the world that the improvement of the franc would be consolidated by the country's financial policy.

Included in the official pronouncement is the telegram sent to the Morgan Company giving the assurance which had been asked.

No further dollars were drawn until May 8 when the Bank of France intervened to check the fall of the franc and again on May 12 and 13 to stop the decline which followed the election.

"The bank has since followed the same policy of applying itself to the task of checking brisk variations in the franc," the statement continues.

"At the present moment the entire operation which was begun March 11 can be wound up if it is so desired without any difficulty and without the necessity of any gold leaving the Bank of France. As for the treasury, it has never been engaged in any way in the operation."

"The next selection"—

by The Veteran Motorist

IN one way, at least, we motorists have it all over the radio fans. They have to wait for their "next selection"—pluck it out of the air, as it were, and then perhaps not be satisfied.

But all that we motorists have to do is to tell Joe, the garage man, to "fill her up with Socony Motor Oil." And, boy, then tune her up, and listen in to the sweet music of the motor.

After all, any motor car is almost human in its appreciation of the proper lubrication and the proper fuel. It resents poor gasoline, and it hates poor lubrication.

Probably you are using Socony Motor Oil today—I have been using it ever since it first came out—but in case you are not, make it your next selection. It is economical in price. It is sold everywhere; it never fails in the endless task of fighting friction, and prolonging the life of the motor. Don't accept a substitute.

For transmissions and differentials, use Socony Gear Compound or Socony Gear Oil. See the Socony Chart.

PHONE BOOST TO COST $4000 IN ONE STORE

Motive Behind Toll Raise Still a Mystery, Says L. S. Bitner

Between $3,500 and $4,000 increase yearly, exclusive of local toll calls, is the way the $1,500,000 extra levy asked by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company hits one store alone, according to L. S. Bitner, executive of one of the largest department stores in the city.

"All manner of theories have been offered as to the possible motive behind the telephone company's demand for more revenue," says Bitner, "and we might add as many more without striking the right one.

"The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company is hitting the people up for more money and that's as much as we know about it. Some local men charge the phone company with making us all pay for the strike and others seem to think the company is trying to build up a reserve capital.

"The main thing, however, is that the telephone company wants more money and that we're all going to pay it if the Public Utilities Commission permits the increase.

"Usually, when we're asked for more money we pay it and say nothing. We are protesting this time, but it's up to the Public Utilities Commission whether or not our protest means anything.

"In our case, at least, we will not attempt to make our customers pay for our increase. We will have to take it to ourselves as a personal loss and credit it as such.

"All those things, however, have a penalizing effect upon business and if Boston is to enjoy prosperity and good business its enterprises should be protected from any more taxation than really must be."

Local merchants and members of the Retail Trade Board, through the Boston American, have called upon the New England public to ask the Public Utilities Commission for a most searching investigation of the needs of the telephone company.

"If this increase is unwarranted, and a study of the corporation has revealed that it is, we feel justified in making every effort to prevent it," says Secretary Bloomfield of the Retail Trade Board.

HOWARD LEADS IN TYPO UNION VOTE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2 (I.N.S.)—The official count on the vote for president of the International Typographical Union may be necessary before it is definitely learned who has been chosen president, Charles P. Howard, incumbent, said today, on the basis of incomplete returns.

Reports from seventy-six locals gave Howard 18,284 and James M. Lynch of Syracuse 15,575.

DRUNKEN AUTOIST IS GIVEN 20 DAYS

James Garnett of No. 10 Kirkman street, South End, was in court today for driving an automobile in Castle Square while drunk. He denied the charge and explained the weaving route of the machine by saying "there were no bulbs in his lamps."

"You were too lit up inside to know, I think," said Judge Duff. "Twenty days."

JOSEPH CROSTA AND MRS. L. BROOKHOUSE

Joseph Crosta of Bangor, Pa., marched into City Hall today handcuffed to a wheelbarrow with a 120-pound load, trundled up the stairs and delivered a message to Mayor Curley's office from Mayor Jordan of the Pennsylvania city. Joseph expects to win $1,000 by completing the 1,200-mile trip in forty days. He gave Mrs. Lothen Brookhouse of No. 42 Chestwind road, West Somerville, a ride, while at City Hall.

PREMIER SHOT BY THIEF WHO WANTED TO DIE

Vienna, June 2 (A.P.)—The Austrian chancellor, Dr. Ignaz Seipel, is in a grave condition with a bullet in his lung, following an attack upon him by a young factory worker, Karl Jaworek.

The chancellor was shot as he stepped from a train at the southern terminal on his return from Winer Neustadt. Jaworek fired three shots, one of which went wide, one grazed the skin and the third penetrated the lung. The assailant then attempted suicide, wounding himself seriously.

The Socialist newspaper Morgen says a letter of confession was found at Jaworek's home. In this he declared that, having embezzled money from the factory where he was employed, and fearing discovery, he had decided to take his life and was determined to take with him the chancellor, who, he declared, had done so much to the detriment of Austria's workers. Jaworek is a member of the Communist party.

'EXCLUSION' SUICIDE HAS PUBLIC FUNERAL

Tokio, June 2 (A.P.)—Leaders in the "national spirit" movement who have been joined by several retired generals, today announced plans for a public funeral on June 5, for the "nameless subject of the Mikado," who committed suicide by hari skari Saturday as a protest against enactment of the immigration law excluding Japanese.

The public obsequies will be followed by a parade. A mass meeting in protest against the exclusion measure will be held. Authorities, declared today that they would take special precaution to guard against any outbreak of violence.

MRS. COOLIDGE TO SEE HER SON GRADUATE

Washington, June 2.—Mrs. Coolidge left Washington today by automobile for Mercersburg, Pa., to attend the commencement exercises of Mercersburg Academy, from which John, the elder of the Coolidge boys, will be graduated Wednesday. The President had planned to attend the commencement exercises, but pressure of work kept him here. Mrs. Coolidge was accompanied by Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

U. S. FLIERS ARE NEAR DEATH IN TYPHOON

Planes Undamaged, but Six Aviators Helpless in Rough Sea

Nagasaki, Japan, June 2 (A.P.)—The American airmen on a round-the-world flight arrived at Kagoshima, Island Kyushu, at 7.02 o'clock this evening, from Kushimoto.

Tokio, June 2 (Universal).—Forced down in a typhoon today, the six aviators comprising the crews of the three American army round the world flight planes barely escaped with their lives when they made an emergency landing in the ocean just off Oshima.

The fliers were rescued when a rope was thrown to them from the United states destroyer Pope, which was standing by near the vicinity of the landing.

The planes were not damaged, but had it not been for the destroyer it is believed that the airmen would have been drowned, as they were swimming helplessly in the rough sea.

The American planes were en route from Kushimoto, on the southern end of Honshu, the main island of Japan, to Kagoshima, on the southwestern tip of Kyushu Island, their last scheduled stopping place in Japan.

The aviators were to be taken back to Kushimoto on the destroyer today and the flight to Kagoshima was to be resumed tomorrow morning if weather conditions are favorable.

Weather conditions permitting the 500-mile jump over the Yellow Sea from Kagoshima to Shanghai, China, will be made later in the week.

D'OISY ARRIVES AT MUKDEN, MAN.

COTTON CROP IS LOWEST IN 10 YEARS

Washington, June 2.—The condition of the cotton crop on May 25 was 65.8 per cent. of a normal, compared with 71.0 a year ago, 69.9 in 1922, 66.9 in 1921, and 72.8, the average of the last ten years, on May 25, the Department of Agriculture announced today in its first report of the season.

LYNN NUNS ROBBED OF $300 WHILE AT MASS

"Convent thieves," taking advantage of the nuns' absence at early mass, looted the convent of St. Patrick's Church, Lynn, and stole $300 from a metal cash box on the superior's desk. Last week "convent thieves" looted a Cambridge convent and obtained $1,100. Police believe both "jobs" are the work of the same band. The Lynn thieves forced the door of St. Patrick's Convent, which had been carefully locked while the nuns were at mass. The weekest cash box was found on their return to the cloister.

Mothers know a dose of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. Everett E. Hunt of Beloni, Okla., who has three children and never any sickness, and Mrs. F. B. Kukleuski of Prosser, Wash., always give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children—calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a comfort drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Syrup Pepsin.

"I WON'T INTERFERE," SAYS FATHER OF SLAYER

NATHAN COMPLETELY BROKEN BY SON'S CRIME

Chicago, June 2 (Universal).—Cynicism, born of vaunted intellectual superiority; icy stoicism, developed by materialistic sophistication. This is the mental picture of the two wealthy youths, slayers of Robert Franks, as psychologists etched it against the background of black crime.

The other picture, not that of the trained psychologist, is drawn in simple strokes by the victim's father, Jacob Franks.

"I understand the two boys boasted they are atheists," said the older Franks, gaunt, hollow-eyed, broken under the strain of anguish, but not vindictive.

"If they can be proved insane, let them be sent to an asylum, if not, the law should take its course. These boys are victims of themselves. They had studied too hard, have developed mentally without receiving their portion of physical recreation and exercise."

TERMED 'INCREDIBLE.'

Although it is believed that the question of "intellectual insanity" will be stressed when they are brought to trial, psychologists today held this defence quite untenable.

"Insanity would be nearly impossible to prove in this case," said one noted authority. "But mental experts will have a great tussle over this case. The case is a paradox of paradoxes.' The confession of the youths said the crime was committed in 'the spirit of adventure.'"

"It is incredible, simply incredible," declared Dr. Sidney Kuh. "The 'fun motive'—that these boys might have committed the crime through a spirit of adventure—is bewildering."

NOT TO INTERFERE.

"Of course the boys are intelligent," said Dr. Robert J. Hickson, noted alienist. "The cold precision of the kidnaping and the absolute ironic detachment of the boys under questioning for so long prove a superior mentality. But this would have nothing to do with possible criminal tendencies."

Another alienist of high repute, Dr. Clarence E. Newman, said the case was too important to "even venture a guess. The highest medical skill might come to naught against those hard-headed fellows."

Nathan Leopold, Sr., millionaire father of one of the youths, was completely broken by his son's confession.

"I shall not interfere," he said.

LOVED KNOWLEDGE.

It was for the parents of the confessed slayers that the victim's father felt deeply in his own bereavement.

"I have known them for a long time," said Franks. "They are my neighbors. Richard Loeb was my son's playmate. For their parents I have only the deepest sympathy. Their burden, it would seem, is nearly as heavy as mine. I have known the youths by reputation. They were carousing quite a bit for boys so young. Possibly they needed money—more money than their parents would give them—and for that, planned the ransom coup."

Cynical, in the light of the confessions appears the board of Leopold and Loeb that they had followed their scientific research for the "sheer beauty of knowledge."

MASTER OF LANGUAGES.

Leopold had devoted himself for years to the study of languages to permit him to read "everything in the original." He reads ten languages and speaks five fluently. With the ease of an expert he discussed psychology in scientific terms.

As an ornithologist, he had written books and treatises on bird lore, of real scientific value. He had made his observations first hand, he had spent years to trace the migration of the Kirkland warbler. He had studied the habits of the elusive little songster in true scientific fashion.

In the space of a second this scientist was able to turn from ornithology to the "flapper slang" of the emancipated youth of today.

"Loeb was 'woozy' with gin Wednesday," Leopold said, seeking to establish his alibi and that of his chum on the day of the slaying. "We picked up a couple of 'molls' but later kicked them out."

ALIENISTS CALLED TO EXAMINE SLAYERS

ently still unaffected by the tragedy.

He only laughs cynically—he asks for a change of clothing and wonders why an attorney has not come to him.

Defense counsel apparently were satisfied with the continuance of the hearing, as their intention was to take the boys out of police custody so they might have access to them. State's Attorney Crowe opposed the continuance or removal of the prisoners.

"Holding these boys since Thursday without color of law amounts to kidnaping," Attorney Clarence Darrow of the defense declared.

Judge Caverly interposed that there was no evidence that the boys had been abused by the police.

FIND TWO GUNS

State's Attorney Crowe said today his case was complete except for the finding of the typewriter on which the ransom note was written. He added that two revolvers had been found in Leopold's room.

Veteran detectives today still remained perplexed by the attitude of the prisoners in offering no other motive than a desire for a thrill, or for adventure, for the crime. They believe the boys were lured by a possible trip to Europe this month which Leopold had discussed with his father.

Leopold had told a young woman, according to investigators, that his father had promised him $3,000 for the journey, but that sum he considered inadequate.

"Cash Will Save Us!" Says Slayer of Boy

Chicago, June 2.—The two young slayers of thirteen-year-old Robert Franks shall not walk to freedom over the money bags of their millionaire parents.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, handling the State's end of this strange, unparalleled murder of an heir to millions by the heirs of millions, made this clear today.

Already the father of Nathan E. Leopold, who today accused Richard A. Loeb of the kidnaping of the Franks lad, has announced his belief that the Leopold wealth, piled up in the lake shipping trade, would remove his boy from the menace of the gallows.

The millions of young Loeb's father, who is vice-president of the Sears-Roebuck Company, will be enlisted for his defence.

Can millions wipe away blood?

Leopold, Jr., made a statement today which explains how he feels about it.

"Money can do anything," he said. "You know, we've got a lot of dough—I don't know how many millions. How about fixing this thing up by getting a few jurors?"

CALL ALIENISTS

State's Attorney Crowe smiled grimly when he heard this and his only answer was to summon four alienists for examination of Loeb and Leopold in an effort to prove their legal sanity. This move was made to anticipate any attempt to plead insanity.

In an amplified statement by Leopold young Loeb was named as the actual slayer of the Franks boy, who was heir to a $4,000,000 estate.

In a statement sizzling with bitterness, Leopold assailed young Loeb as a weakling and a turn-coat.

It was the first statement made to newspapermen by either of the young men since they confessed having kidnaped and killed the little rich boy. It was made exclusively to Wallace Sullivan, special writer for Universal Service, who accompanied Leopold in the auto of Chief of Detectives Hughes in a flying tour of the ground covered the afternoon the boy was slain.

FIND BELT

One more link in the chain of evidence which may send the two to the gallows, was found buried in a field near Hessville, Ind., a few miles from Hammond. It was the boy's belt.

The typewriter upon which was written the extortion letter received by Jacob Franks, the boy's father, has not yet been found. It is believed to be in the Jackson Park lagoon and plans are now being made to use a specially constructed electro-magnet to draw it from the water.

Leopold also asserted in his bitter denunciation of Loeb that the latter planned the kidnaping and slaying.

"It was all Loeb's idea," he said. "I realize that I am equally guilty and that we both face the same penalty. It gets me nothing, then, to accuse him.

"Nevertheless, he planned the kidnaping and I helped carry it out by writing the extortion letter. Yes, I wrote it—every word of it.

"It was Loeb, though, who entered the boy into the car, and it was Loeb who struck him on the head.

"Weapons which might injure a person are so repugnant to me that I loathe the sight of them. It would have been physically impossible for me to have struck the blow that killed Robert Franks. Loeb knows this, too."

ABHORS WEAPONS

He then detailed the manner in which the actual slaying was done:

"I rented the car myself.

"After we got the car, we went to my house for gasoline and oil. It seems likely, doesn't it that I would be driving then?

"Tell Loeb for me that it makes no difference which of us did the actual killing.

"Tell him that he should not forget that my repugnance to violence is such that I could not have killed Robert.

"Tell him that my one regret is that I find him so weak as to accuse me and that I know the reason. He thinks that by proving me the actual slayer he will eventually go free.

"I was driving. Loeb was sitting in the back of the car. The curtains were up all around.

"He leaned over the front seat and opened the door, calling to Robert—and Leopold demonstrated in the chief's car the manner in which he and Loeb had moved.

"'Come, Robert,' Dick said," continued Leopold, "'We'll ride you home.' 'No,' replied the boy, 'It's only two blocks—I'll walk.'

"'Come here, anyway,' said Dick. 'I want to tell you about a new tennis racquet.' The boy came slowly across the street and hopped upon the running board.

ENTICED BOY

"'Get in,' said Dick, 'I want you to meet Nathan Leopold.' The boy did get in and the next moment Dick struck him on the head and threw the gag bandage around his neck, strangling him.

"It was all over in a minute. I sat there, sick, while the kid kicked and struggled beside me.

"Tell him that I know the law and that I am merely amused by his flounderings. We are both principals in the first degree and—

"There is no forgiveness."

Leopold spoke earnestly, bitterly. At times his face contracted in a spasm of passion as he vented his spite against his former friend, the one who now believes would sacrifice him in the hope that he might win exoneration.

NEAR COLLAPSE

After he finished his denunciation he was weak, nearer collapse than at any time since he has been taken into custody, and he asked that some one procure for him a glass of water containing ten drops of aromatic spirits of ammonia. He pleaded:

"Get it, for God's sake."

After drinking the potion he felt better.

Earlier his attitude towards Loeb was that of one who is grief stricken rather than bitter because of real or fancied treachery.

Then he asked that a message be given to Loeb, saying:

"Tell him I am very much surprised that he fears death;

"Tell him I am surprised that he was so weak as to confess in the first place, and that I was surprised when he was so weak as to faint under the strain.

"Just a weakling, after all."

GIVES LEOPOLD LIE

Loeb's face darkened with rage when he was told of Leopold's attack. Then, in a moment, he grew calm.

"I was driving that car and not Nathan," he said quietly. "Nathan was in the back seat. I did call Robert over because I was the one who knew him. Nathan did not.

"It is not true that I reached over from the back seat to open the door.

"When Robert climbed in Babe (Leopold) reached from behind and struck him. That's the truth of it—so help me God."

The tour itself was not without drama.

Chief Hughes arrived at the Fiftieth street station with two autos. He took Leopold in his car and Loeb was placed in another.

The first stop was at a restaurant. Leopold, who had not slept during the night, smoked incessantly. He was not nervous, however, and he laughed and joked. Loeb was palpably disturbed. His face was white and drawn. He ate little or nothing, while Leopold ate a hearty breakfast.

Leopold was served by a pretty waitress, whom he joked incessantly and who, true to her calling, joked right back.

The two cars then sped into Jackson Park. Leopold, in the rear seat with Chief Hughes, directed the driver as to the best entrance.

The car proceeded to the bridge near the yacht club and here several thousand people were assembled, watching the efforts of police and volunteer assistants to find the typewriter.

Loeb left the car in which he was riding at this point. He said:

"If you'll get back I'll show you just where I threw it."

Police cleared a space and Loeb stood there alone for a few moments apparently in deep thoughts. Then he turned as though taking bearings and, at last, extended his arm, pointing out into the water.

"There," he said, "there you will find the typewriter."

On the way to Hessville, Leopold engaged in a lengthy and erudite discussion of many weighty matters with the reporter.

LIKES THE ROLE

Once he digressed to remark on the beauty of a clump of lilac bushes in the grounds of the South Shore Country Club—and that led him into a dissertation on esthetics.

He seemed to like to dwell on the fact that he is a confessed murderer, and asked everyone in the car if they thought less of him.

Once he leaned over abruptly and touched the reporter on the knee. He observed:

"Now you're contaminated; you've been touched by a murderer."

MOTHER SOBS AS LOEB TALKS ON PHONE

Tells Her It's All True, but Reassures Her Everything Will Be All Right

Chicago, June 2 (By Universal Service).—Tragedy brooded over a slender telephone wire when, true to a promise made by State's Attorney Crowe, Richard Loeb was allowed to telephone his home.

On the one end was the boy—hesitant, fearful. On the other, his mother, heart torn for him, yearning towards him with all the love of her soul.

They did not say much. They couldn't; but over the wire came understanding and hope.

There were long pauses between the words.

"Hello, mother," said the boy. "This is Dick——Mommy, I just called to—to tell you that it's all true, Mommy——Yes, it's all true. But Nathan did it, Mommy. He did the killing."

"Oh, Dick, my boy"——it was the mother's voice, shaking——"Please don't say that——please—I don't, darling, I don't believe a word of it ——not a word."

"But, it's true, Mommy dear—it's true——at least, believe some of it. Everything will be all right——Oh, Mommy——"

And then, after a long time in almost a sob——

"Oh, Mommy, I love——"

"Be brave, Dick. If some of it's true——just be brave, and——and we'll get you out——Don't say anything——Oh, Dick!——"

And that was all.

Young Leopold, when he was permitted to telephone his home, assumed a businesslike conversation. His father is ill. His mother is dead.

"Send me a change of clothes, and isn't it about time you employed an attorney for me?" he was reported as saying. "Yes, I did it. We have got to face it and make the best of it."

Mrs. Franks, mother of the slain boy, is reported in a serious condition. She suffered a relapse when she was informed who had killed her boy. She had not recovered from the blow of Robert's death.

Cod Liver Oil Now In Tasteless Tablets
McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

CINCINNATI'S NEW STATION OPEN SOON

Third Station Takes 309-Meter Wave; WLW to Open New Studio

Cincinnati's third large broadcast station will open soon, heralded by its temporary call letters 8XBV, the new station located in the Hotel Alms, has been broadcasting test programs nightly, after midnight.

A division of time was partially agreed upon at a conference between the representatives of the three stations, the Alms being allotted an early evening period on Wednesday evenings and the hours from 10 to 12 on Saturday and Sunday evenings. Additional time divisions will be arranged.

As the Ainsworth-Gates Radio Company opens its Hotel Alms station, the Crosley Radio Corporation begins the erection of its new station and studio on a site some distance further from Cincinnati's downtown district.

WLW will be equipped with now apparatus throughout. Plans for the studio provide glass partitions separating the reception room from the broadcasting and operating rooms, affording visitors unobstructed view of broadcasting activities.

RADIO "FLIVVER" TO CONVINCE FARMERS

Montreal, June 2.—In order to stimulate interest in radio throughout the rural districts of the Province of Quebec, and to convince, on the spot, the incredulous, a car of the "flivver" type, equipped with the latest receiving devices, will cover every district populated by French-Canadians, traveling a distance of over 3,000 miles.

Station CKAC, owned and operated by "La Presse" Publishing Company, Ltd., Montreal, will be picked up and supply the daily entertainment.

WEAF TALK ON TRIP OF AD MEN

R. E. Hutchinson, a prominent advertising man, will talk from WEAF tonight on the trip of about 2,000 advertising and merchandising men who will sail on July 2 to attend the world-wide conference on advertising at Wembley Park, England. Mr. Hutchinson is an old-time broadcaster, having broadcast from NAA, Arlington, Va., for about eight months for the United States Department of Commerce.

Answers to Queries

I built a four-tube Super according to booklet. Am using 201A's and 200. Tunes in WDAP about the same volume as WGI on loud speaker. Signals over 380 meters come in no louder. The set tunes in WNAC, WGI and WEAN with ground wire on antenna post and no aerial. H. F. D.

It is probable that condensers are below their rated capacity. If the low wave stations come in fairly well up on the dial, a few more turns on the secondaries of the coils will fix it up. If this difficulty is recent, it may be because the long wave stations are not coming in.

I have built a two-tube Superflex according to your instructions. I would like to know what adjustment to set to become noisy when either condenser is turned when the other is stationary. There is plenty of selectivity and volume, but not as much distance as I expected, 600 to 800 miles being the record so far. T. T.

This is a new one! The most likely explanation is that the grid lead of one of the tubes is too near to some other parallel lead. Remember even the big superheterodynes are not getting distance these days.

I have a Radiola V and was able to get stations as far west as Iowa and as far north as Canada. Aerial and ground are the same, but now all I can get is WBZ and WDBH, with good volume. Webster Fan.

This is a difficulty all listeners have had to put up with recently. There have been no distance records recently.

I have built a four-tube Super. It equals on all stations in spite of all I do. S. S.

We have yet to see a Super properly made which equals parts which consistently squealed. However, the other kind may be fixed up by the use of absorbent coils in place of the old style.

Thanks for your Superflex. I have only one fault to find with my two-tube model. There's too much volume. Have had Chicago stations on the loud speaker. W. M.

Had to cut down your letter to get it in here, but we read it all. We are glad to hear what parts are being chosen by Superflex builders.

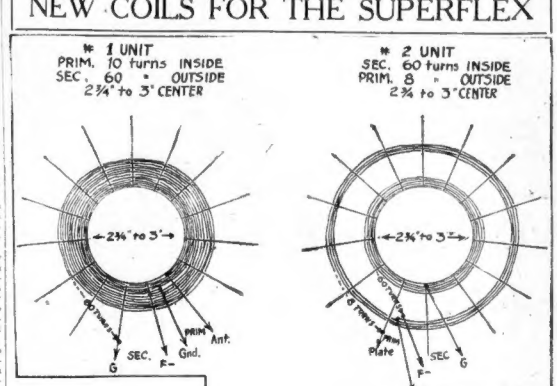
NEW COILS FOR THE SUPERFLEX



Don't Forget Offer of $1,000 by the Como Co.

Radio enthusiasts and engineers, don't forget that the Como Apparatus Co., father of the Baby Giant Superheterodyne, offers $1,000 for a better circuit.

SPIDER WEB COIL UNITS

Experiments with spiderweb coils in the Boston American Superflex, both one and two tubes, and in the old Super are now completed, so that definite specifications may be given. Theses are shown in the sketches below. Below them is shown how they should be mounted on the condensers, the one at the left having its flat faces horizontal, and the one at the right vertical. The centre of the latter should be on a line with the plane of the left coil.

SPIDER WEB FOR SUPER AND SUPERFLEX

Experiments Indicate Excellent Results With This Coil in the American Sets

For those who wish to use spiderweb coils in the Superflex and Super in place of the cylindrical coils, the American now reports on experiments with these coils.

They are highly recommended to those who wish to make their own coils. The distributed capacity is less than in the cylindrical type, and for that reason the tuning is sharper and the losses less.

They are also easier to build for many.

The number of turns, form, etc., are shown in the accompanying sketch. This shows both No. 1 and No. 2 unit for the Superflex, either one or two tube.

The spider web coil is also very successful in the old Super. For this set, build both coils like Unit No. 1 in the sketch, except make the primary six turns.

Coils, both of which are built like Unit No. 1 except with a six-turn primary, may be also used in the Superflex with tube detector. The changes in windings for the second coil in the Superflex with crystal detector is designed to balance the resistance of the crystal.

Sickles coils for the Superflex are now ready, and tomorrow we will describe them. These coils are wound somewhat like an ordinary spiderweb, with the exception that two prongs are skipped instead of one in winding, giving the famous diamond weave effect.

ON THE AIR LAST NIGHT

By THE LISTENER

The evening church service from Park Street Church 4s a real treat. For me, it is made so to a great extent by the excellent music by the organist, John Herman Loud. Mr. Loud impresses the radio listener as a man who loves his instrument, and plays it accordingly. There is a difference between just organ music and organ music as Mr. Loud plays it.

The usual Sunday evening program from the Capitol Theatre in New York came through extra well with me last night. I picked it up from WJAR. There was more or less interference between WGI and WJAR, and I imagine those who live nearer WGI were out of luck entirely with WJAR and "Rosie."

Roxie seemed to be in excellent humor last night. Practically every remark was accompanied with a laugh—a laugh so contagious, it was shared by everyone in the studio.

Yesterday afternoon was full of real entertainment for those who were fortunate enough to be using their receiving sets. The 3 o'clock program from WNAC, given by pupils of Jacob Kirshin, is the one I refer to. It was a program chock full of high class entertainment.

It has been a long while since I have heard such smooth cello music as furnished by Lawrence Rose. His playing of "A Prayer" was wonderful. The "Moonlight Sonata," by Beethoven, was played as a piano solo by Blanche Vlostovitz, and aside from the lengthy nature of the piece, I thought it was a pretty smooth rendition.

WEAF's program, by the Waiters Amusement Agency, was without peer in the popular line last night. Miss Madeline Moore sang a little song entitled "The Little Wooden Whistle that Wouldn't Whistle." The song was so comical that Miss Moore came near breaking down from laughter right in the middle of it.

It is rumored about town that WTAY is shortly to go off the air on account of transferring their apparatus to their building on Boylston Street, where the big guns are located. We will miss them without a doubt, but I suppose the change will be much for the better, especially as regards stronger signals, etc., from that long new aerial.

Speaking of laughs, here's a good one. Sam Curtis was engaged by John Shepard 3rd of WNAC to handle the broadcast amplifier during a day afternoon at the Harvard Spring. WNAC was broadcasting the Harvard baseball game. Curtis, available radio set, heard Curtis laughing more or less.

In fact, Sam laughed so much connections and note the result.

that when he returned to the store Mr. Shepard told him it would not be necessary for him to make out a pay voucher for the afternoon's work.

When asked why, he said, "Well, you seemed to be enjoying yourself so much I think we had better regard it as "just an afternoon off," and let it go at that." According to latest reports, Sam still doesn't know which way to take the joke.

Rotary and other luncheon men's clubs throughout the nation have a habit of having a radio speech as a radio speeches. A radio is given so many minutes, and when he is with, in two minutes of that time he is gently plucked by the sleeve and a penciled note reading "Two minutes" is held where he can see it. He can't gather up the loose threads of his discourse and make a suitable ending to his talk inside of the two minutes that is his hard luck.

With so many stores putting in radio broadcasting stations, how long will it be ere we have shoppers by radio? When that time comes Mrs. X will say to Mrs. Z, "I just bought a new dress today from WBY." And Mrs. Z will say to Mrs. X: "You should see the really charming handkerchief I picked up at station PMA."

TEST HEAD PHONES FOR POSITIVE SIDE

The positive side of the head phones or the loud-speaker unit should be connected to the plus post of the "B" battery, or to the circuit which leads to that post.

This is important. If you cannot determine which is the plus side of the phones or speaker, either ask the dealer from which you purchased them, or try this simple experiment. Try the phones or speaker connected the way you now have them. Then reverse the connections and note the result. Whichever connection gives the best result, that is the one to use.

TRY REVERSING STUNT ON CRYSTAL

The proper connections on a crystal receiver are just as important in the reception of signals as proper connection on a tube set. Try the following out with the use of a crystal detector each one varies in the respect to which direction the current enters.

Some work best and give good signals when the current enters through the cat's-whisker, and others when the current enters through the crystal and leaves through the cat's-whisker. Try reversing the tube

LOPEZ TO PLAY THROUGH WEAF

Vincent Lopez and his Hotel Pennsylvania orchestra having closed their season in the Grill room of that hotel, are now to be heard from the Pennsylvania roof, where they perform nightly for the summer season. Their semi-weekly concerts will continue as usual on Thursday and Saturday evenings through WEAF, with Lopez making his own announcements.

COOLIDGE BOYS TO HEAR NOMINATION

Washington, June 2.—Radio apparatus in the President's study on the second floor of the White House will bring the proceedings of the Republican National Convention to Washington for the entertainment of John and Calvin Coolidge, Jr. They will hear their dad nominated at Cleveland.

The boys will spend a few weeks in Washington during June. A peek into the big convention in person was what the young Coolidges first had in mind. Frowning on any unnecessary emphasis of the boys as White House children, their parents decided that a radio account of the Republican gathering would be ample.

The Message That "Gets Home" is in the Newspaper That Goes Home!

AN ADVERTISER has got to get across the threshold before he can get his message across. His first step in making people SIT UP is to procure an invitation to SIT DOWN. But he can't get that invitation through a newspaper that circulates to the FOUR WINDS OF HEAVEN. He can only get it through a newspaper that circulates in the FOUR WALLS OF HOME. The Boston American has a bigger Recorded–Signed–Sealed–and–Delivered –Home–Circulation than all other Boston evening newspapers put together! Its Guaranteed Home Delivery of 60,886 copies is THE GREATEST HOMING CIRCULATION in New England. And that means THE SMALLEST ROAMING CIRCULATION in New England, because the known home percentage indicates what happens to the percentage you don't know about!

BOBBED-HAIRED WOMAN WINS CAPE COD P. O. FIGHT

VIOLENCE CHECKED AT TRURO

Miss Mary E. Joseph Becomes Postmistress After Feud of Three Years

A Cape Cod postoffice is something to scrap about.

When you remember that a Cape Cod postoffice not only dispenses government atmosphere, cold drinks, cord tires, gasoline and "the news when it's news," but a social position that extends a mile and a half to the Atlantic on one side and as far as Cape Cod Bay on the other, you get the idea.

Hence the presence of the State constabulary when a bobbed-haired trate woman demanded surrender of the Truro postoffice in an atmosphere that promised violence as the crowds surged about the office at midnight Saturday.

While uniformed constabulary gave the affair the dignity of a military surrender, former Postmaster Anthony R. Francis tendered the government property to the new incumbent, Miss Mary E. Joseph, after a three-year feud between them had divided the town into hostile factions.

Armed with a telegram from the postoffice department authorizing her to take over the postoffice after the Washington office had been deluged with complaints against him, which Francis maintained were "framed," Miss Joseph, with a goodly flock of witnesses arrived at the postoffice at 8 o'clock and demanded its surrender.

"Not before twelve o'clock—possession is nine points of the law," was the ultimatum of Postmaster Francis who in his early days had a predilection for law.

Meantime relatives of Miss Joseph gathered about the postoffice and villagers, vacationists and hoodlums augmented the crowd.

Feeling ran high, the former postmaster charging several of the town's leading lights with a conspiracy to drive him out of town.

A previous episode in the feud occurred last week when Francis is said to have blackened the eyes of the town's prize beauty, "Joe" Atwood, when the latter attempted to arrest him without a warrant. Only when Atwood had gathered assistance was the former postmaster conveyed to the hoosegow bound hand and foot. For this, Francis declares, he will have the arrestine partner locked in jail.

Francis declares that through the connivance of some of the local citizenry he has been "framed" on auto charges and his license revoked. His enemies, says the postoffice, he declares, be part of the plot.

A salary of $500 goes with the postoffice, which is fourth class.

Missing From Home

MRS. ERNEST A. BUSH, wife of Weymouth man, who is suspected of having run away with Patrolman Edward Mathewson of the Weymouth police force. They have not been seen since Memorial Day.

NAME WIFE AND COP AS ELOPERS

Weymouth Policeman and Mrs. Bush, a Neighbor, Missing Since Memorial Day

When Edward Mathewson, erstwhile member of the Weymouth police force, filled the tank of his touring car with "gas" and left town on the morning of Memorial Day, no one gave the matter a thought.

When it was discovered, however, that Mrs. Ernest A. Bush, 30 years old, also of Weymouth had disappeared about the same time as the policeman, things began to happen.

Mrs. Mathewson, wife of the officer, dropped around to police station and informed Chief Pratt that her husband had undoubtedly eloped.

When her husband failed to return home, she had hustled to the Bush home and when she found Mrs. Bush also had disappeared, her worst suspicions were verified, she told the chief.

SUSPENDED BY CHIEF

When Bush, the husband of the missing woman, returned from a camping trip to the White Mountains, it took him only a few minutes to arrive at the same conclusion Mrs. Mathewson had reached twenty-four hours earlier.

Chief Pratt is a direct actionist and when the aggrieved husband and the deserted wife told their stories to him, he promptly suspended the absent patrolman from the Weymouth force. The missing officer's accoutrements were found at his home and these were taken in charge by the chief.

It was an anonymous letter received by Mrs. Mathewson that first warned her of her husband's friendliness for the comely wife of Bush. Recently she received an unsigned note that warned her to "watch your step or your home will be wrecked."

SECRET MEETINGS.

The note also told the wife that her husband was meeting Mrs. Bush clandestinely, while he was "pounding" his beat.

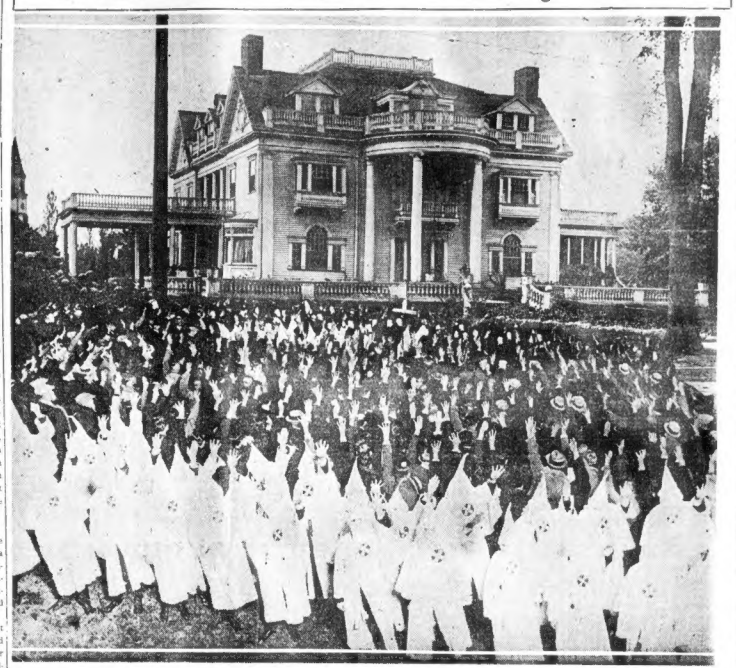
Mrs. Mathewson's first action when she received the letter was to visit Mr. Bush and acquaint him of the contents. He, however, refused at the time to believe the report of his wife's alleged faithlessness.

When Mathewson left, Chief Pratt said, about $38 salary was due him from the town, which he failed to collect. The Mathewson home is at No. 18 Drew's avenue, East Weymouth.

Mrs. Mathewson is the daughter of a Somerville patrolman.

The Bush home is on Forrest street, South Weymouth. Patrolman Mathewson did night duty in the South Weymouth section. Bush is employed as a machinest in Cambridge and is said to be something of a bacteriologist.

KLAN DEDICATES NEW HEADQUARTERS



KLANSMEN GATHER FROM THREE STATES

Old Wallace mansion (above) dedicated as headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont at a big meeting held near Rochester, N. H., at wh ch 3,000 new members were inducted into the hooded order and May or Curley, Governor "Al" Smith and other prominent political leaders were voted into the "Who's Through in America" list made up by the Klan.

KLUXERS DEDICATE QUARTERS

Curley and Al Smith Marked for Political Ruin at Rochester, N. H., Gathering

Rochester, N. H., June 2.—Thousands of members of the Ku Klux Klan from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont invaded Rochester.

Headquarters in the three States was formally opened in the Wallace Mansion.

D. D. E. W. Gayer, of Indiana, took the oath of office as King Kleigal for the new district, succeeding E. Eugene Farnsworth, deposed head of the Maine branch of the Klan.

Two thousand new members were initiated before the fiery cross in a natural amphitheatre in a wooded valley five miles out on the Farmington highway.

Governor Al Smith of New York, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and ex. Mayor Fred Small of this city were added to the Klan list of "Who's Through in America," by a vote of the Klansmen in the woods.

It was estimated that 2,000 automobiles came to Rochester bringing the Klansmen of the three States together. The visitors inspected the new headquarters and shook hands with King Kleigal Gayes. Then the visitors and the 2,000 men to be initiated started for the woods.

In the center of the valley a cross was erected. It was lighted and burned throughout the proceedings. Before the cross stood a platform and it was on this platform that the candidates were initiated by hooded Klansmen.

Twenty-five Klansmen, wearing white hoods and gowns, met the automobiles on the road at the entrance to the wood. All those wishing to attend the initiation were obliged to show their credentials. Bands of hooded men patrolled the woods to keep curiosity-seekers away.

Many Bonus Queries Are Sent Hearst Papers

Washington, June 2 (Universal Service).—Veterans in all parts of the country are sending inquiries to the Hearst newspapers, Soldiers' Friend bureaus, the United States Veterans' Bureau and other organizations asking for information on the Soldier Bonus bill that will solve their own individual problems.

Among the questions asked comes one from an ex-service man who wants to know whether his service in the Panama Canal Zone is rated as overseas service.

No, it is not. "Overseas Service" means service on shore in Europe or Asia, exclusive of China, Japan and the Philippine Islands; and service afloat except on receiving ships. Anything else comes under the head of home service.

Many men are anxious to know just when their overseas service may be said to have begun.

In computing their credit, they can count an overseas service all the time from the day they embarked at the port here until the day they again landed on home shores. The time they spent in camp, both before sailing and after disembarkation, they should count as home service.

A former sailor boy who served aboard the transports going between this country and France is puzzled as to how much overseas credit he is entitled to claim.

Men who were in the transport service can count all their time as overseas, inclusive of the times they were in port in this country.

TRAINING TIME COUNTS.

A man in Los Angeles asks whether an officer's service started with his enrollment in an officer's training camp.

Yes, it did. This does not include members of Students' Army Training Corps who are not eligible for the bonus.

Also from Los Angeles comes the question as to whether heirs of men who died before their discharge from service are entitled to the adjusted compensation.

Heirs of dead soldiers are entitled to the bonus if they come under the head of dependents, which includes widows, parents and children of minor age.

Many inquirers want to know whether they can borrow on their policies after January 1, 1927, or not until two years after the actual date of the issue of the policies.

According to the law, no loan can be made on a policy until two years after the date of issue, but according to the present plans of the War Department and the United States Veterans' Bureau, this date will be January 1, 1927.

MAXIMUM IS $1,590.62.

A New York veteran wonders if anyone, under the law, can receive the full $2,000.

This would be impossible because the limit of adjusted service credit, $625, multiplied by the maximum factor, 2.546, gives $1,590.62 as the largest possible bonus.

One man writes to find out whether, having been twice honorably discharged from the navy and then the third time dishonorably discharged for being A. W. O. L., he is entitled to a bonus.

No, he is not, because the law excludes from adjusted compensation a man who has been at any time separated from the service under other than honorable conditions.

REBELS MARCH ON CAPITAL OF TIRANA

London, June 2. (I.N.S.)—Revolution has broken out in Albania and strong detachments of rebels are marching upon Tirana, the capital, according to a Brindisi despatch to the Daily Mail today.

Twenty-eight Albanian rebels and thirty-two government soldiers were killed in an hour's battle near Tirani, it was reported from the Albanian capital this afternoon.

Italian warships have been warned to be ready to proceed to Albania.

The rebel force is said to be composed of 6,000 men.

The government army consists of 3,000 men.

Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country. The rebels demand the government's resignation and removal of the capitol to Scutari.

BOUTWELL TO RUN AGAINST UNDERHILL

Congressman Charles L. Underhill of Somerville, who aroused much opposition both within and without his party by his activity against the bonus, is to have opposition for re-election to Congress next Fall. City Solicitor Harvey L. Boutwell of Malden has papers in circulation for the nomination.

Congressman Underhill first aroused opposition in his own party by his efforts to defeat the equal suffrage amendment. Mr. Boutwell's candidacy is receiving indorsement from many ex-service men.

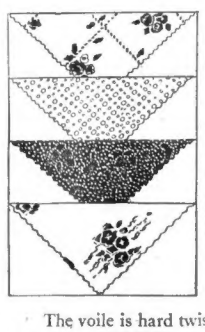
VOILES 35c A Yard



SEVEN thousand one hundred and forty-three yards of these voiles have been purchased, which is convincing at least as to our belief in them. As a matter of fact this is an offering worth to stand as an example of Shepard Service and is made at a time when the material is most wanted. The new colors are here and also designs which translate readily the modes of the year.

The voile is hard twisted and is naturally much better than the price would indicate. It is a big part of Shepard Service to give such values as this and we follow that up with prompt and courteous attention in the Wash Goods Store — Second Floor, Tremont Street Front.

WALKER RISKS TITLE IN BATTLE WITH TENDLER TONIGHT

TEN-ROUND TUSSLE TO DECISION

By DAMON RUNYON

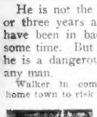
Philadelphia, June 2.—Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, defends his title tonight against Lew Tendler.

Tendler is the Philadelphia "southpaw" who recently outgrew the lightweight division. He was a good lightweight, perhaps the best "southpaw" the division has ever known.

He is not the Tendler of two or three years ago. His hands have been in bad condition for some time. But in a short fight he is a dangerous opponent for any man.

Walker in coming to Tendler's home town to risk his title in a brief bout displays a confidence in his ability somewhat at variance with his attitude a few months ago.

He was offered $40,000 to meet Jack Shade, of California, in fifteen rounds at Madison Square Garden for the benefit of the New York American Christmas Fund and declined.



Mickey Walker

Shade is a better boxer than Tendler, but not as hard a puncher. As between the two, however, under the conditions—Shade, in fifteen rounds; Tendler in ten—the average pugilistic follower would consider Shade the better match for Walker.

SCHOOLBOY TRACK SEASON CLOSES

The schoolboy track season closes this week when the Boston High School athletes hold their annual Heggie meet tomorrow at the M. I. T. track and the State High School Associate stages its annual meet at the Harvard Stadium.

English High is the favorite in the games tomorrow with Hyde Park as runner-up. Medford, which recently won the first annual Suburban League meet, is the favorite to win at the Stadium, with Newton as runner-up in Class A. Winthrop and Quincy are strongly represented in Class B.

RICKARD CONFIRMS FIRPO'S RETURN

New York, June 2.—Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, confirmed the report from Buenos Ayres that Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, had finally recanted his retirement announcement and had definitely signified his willingness to meet Harry Wills in a bout here this year. Rickard stated that he had received a cable from Buenos Ayres stating that Firpo and Juan Homa, Rickard's South American representative, had come to an agreement and that the Argentinian would affix his signature to a contract tomorrow.

EDDIE WILLIAMS AFTER MURPHY

Eddie Williams, East Boston's fighting featherweight, is ready to meet Billy Murphy at Lowell any time he is given five days' notice. Williams has been practically assured of the next match with "Red" Chapman, and in the meantime, he would tackle Bobby Garcia at Holyoke or Worcester. Charlie Mantz, Al Shubert, Terry Parker, Steve Gustin, Romeo Rocha, Willie Shurgue or any other featherweight, Williams made a great impression on the Lynn fans when he easily beat Mick McAdams, highly touted Scotchman.

GIBBONS SPURNS $50,000 FOR GO WITH RENAULT

By JACK CONWAY.

Tom Gibbons, who was kind enough to permit Georges Carpentier, once great light-heavyweight, to go ten rounds, refuses a $50,000 guarantee for a bout with Jack Renault with the same graciousness he showed during the last three rounds of his contest with the Frenchman. The offer was made by the promoters of the New York American's Milk Fund Show.

Perhaps Gibbons would have shown more interest in a battle with Renault if offered $100,000.

The St. Paul man received $62,000 for a ten-round, no-decision match with Carpentier and so probably wishes more for a fifteen-session engagement to a decision.

Three years ago Gibbons fought Pat McCarthy in Mechanics Building for less than $5,000. He was then considered an old man as far as boxing was concerned with only a few more fights ahead of him.

Gibbons has proved what a poor lot our heavyweights are by going out at the age of thirty-five and securing a greater purse than John L. Sullivan, Jim Jeffries or Jack Johnson ever did.

Prior to his battle with Carpentier the largest sum Gibbons ever received for a bout was $12,500 which was paid to him when he was badly beaten by Harry Greb in New York. The St. Paul man did not receive a single penny for his contest with Jack Dempsey at Shelby. There was not enough money in the house to even pay the champion his guarantee of $300,000 despite the fact that two of Shelby's banks and the rest of the town went broke on the championship venture.

Following the Shelby affair, Gibbons went on a twenty weeks theatrical tour at a salary of $2,000 a week. Which probably caused him to forget all about Dempsey's sting for the show.

DEMPSEY BOUT PUT GIBBONS ON TOP

Possibly Gibbons has Dempsey to thank for being able to get the twenty-week theatrical booking and then the profitable fight with Carpentier. This writer believes that Gibbons lasted fifteen rounds with Dempsey because the latter was as thoughtful and considerate as the St. Paul man was when he clashed with Carpentier.

Dempsey knew Gibbons was not going to get paid a cent for boxing. It was also necessary for Gibbons to be in the ring for the champion to get $275,000. If Tom had been so cruel as to have taken a trun out of Shelby the day before the bout the show would have been a complete failure. Which may explain why Dempsey was satisfied to go in and outpoint Gibbons.

We do not wish to take any credit away from Gibbons. He is a master boxer, but he is only a light-heavyweight. Dempsey is too big for him, also punches too hard.

Dempsey is a ring assassin much like Sam Langford was fifteen years ago. He crushes his opponents, batters them into submission under a merciless attack.

CARPENTIER NEVER GOT OVER EFFECTS OF BOUT.

It was Dempsey, not Gibbons, who defeated Carpentier. The Frenchman took a frightful battering from the champion at Jersey City three years ago next month. The Tiger Man ruined Carpentier with body punches, knocked him out with a left hook to the jaw followed by a right hand smash to the same spot as the Frenchman was falling through the air.

Carpentier never recovered from the effects of that contest. He was later knocked out by Battling Siki who is only a mediocre performer. Kid Norfolk proved this when he easily conquered the jungle warrior in New York.

Regardless of why he lasted fifteen rounds with Dempsey and the fact Carpentier was through as a boxer after the Dempsey match, Gibbons occupies a position in the sun. He is a winner and as in days of old to the victor belongs the spoils.

Harry Greb, middleweight champion, has defeated Gibbons in the past, probably could do so again today. Gibbons, however, has had the "break" which is what puts men at the top in sport in many instances.

Dempsey consented to fight Gibbons, yet turned down numerous offers for limited round bouts with Greb. Dempsey has told this writer on numerous occasions that he is confident he can knock out Harry Wills inside of five rounds, but he won't claim he can outpoint Greb in ten frames. Of course in a fifteen round match it would be a different story.

Greb is much smaller than Dempsey, but has much of the latter's fighting spirit. He is always bent on destruction when in the ring. When he defeated Gibbons in New York, he was almost knocked out in the second round. Groggy from the effects of a right hand sock to the jaw, he refused to go down, fought back furiously and took all the fight out of Gibbons by his gallant come-back.

Gibbons has been a flat tire since as far as being a ring attraction in New York. The Carpentier match apparently has re-established his position judging by the $50,000 offer for a tussle with Renault.

PREFERS BOUT WITH FIRPO OR JOHNSON

Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, would probably prefer battling Floyd Johnson or Luis Firpo. Gibbons would have a better chance of winning over either Johnson or Firpo than he would in a contest with Renault.

Five years ago Renault was a $300 fighter around the New England circuit. He wasn't even considered a game. Then he joined Dempsey's training camp, was inoculated with some of the champion's courage and today stands forth as one of the most dangerous challengers for the champion's title.

W. & J. AND PITT TENNIS TEAMS TO PLAY

Washington, Pa., June 2.—Washington and Jefferson College and University of Pittsburgh Tennis teams are to play for the championship of the Tri-State district in Pittsburgh on June 3. That the Presidents and Panthers would be the contenders for the title was generally recognized by critics previous to the opening of the season. Their opinion was verified when the racqueters of the schools tied in the six matches played here, each winning three.

URUGUAYAN SOCCER TEAM WINS AGAIN

Paris, June 2.—In the quarter finals of the Olympic soccer competition today the Uruguayan team defeated France, 5 to 1, and Sweden won from Egypt by a similar score.

In defeating the French team the Uruguayans continued their victorious career toward the Olympic championship, having previously defeated Jugo Slavia and the United States. The Frenchmen were just as powerless before the Uruguayans as had been the stolid Jugo Slavians and the determined North Americans.

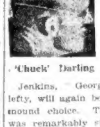
EAGLE AND GEORGETOWN PLAY TODAY AT FENWAY

Boston College meets Georgetown this afternoon at the Fenway in an unscheduled game, arranged through the courtesy of the managements of the two Boston major leagues. The date was an open one on both cards, and the two teams were eager to cross bats again for the Catholic championship title, Boston College being particularly anxious to atone for the beating administered by the Hilltoppers a week ago.

Georgetown has won and lost, while the Eagle has dropped both games in the series thus far. The first defeat was by Georgetown, when, 2, C. blew up in the ninth, and allowed five runs to overcome the lead then in the Eagle's possession.

'Chuck' Darling

Jenkins, Georgetown's stellar lefty, will again be Coach O'Reilly's mound choice. The Syracuse boy was remarkably steady in the last game, and allowed B. C. but a half dozen scattered hits. Jenkins has been the Blue and Grey standby since the shakeup a month ago, which ruined their championship chances.



Mullowney.

Mullowney, who twirled before against the Hilltoppers, will face them this afternoon. The lanky Brookline hurler has won four of five games, his only defeat being the Georgetown fray, when poor support in the last frame slackened his state.

Tommy Phillips will remain behind the bat. Ward, who injured his fingers in the Yale game, is still out of condition, although he hopes to be able to hold a mitt before the end of the week. The B. C. captain is still a little uncertain behind the plate, but the last two games have helped to iron out a few of the rough spots.

BETHLEHEM BEATS SOCCER CHAMPS, 2-1

Tiverton, R. I., June 2.—Bethlehem Steel defeated Fall River, 2 to 1, in one of the most interesting games ever witnessed at Marks' Stadium. The game was played at an exceptionally fast pace, and the bitter rivalry between America's best soccer elevens manifested itself several times during the conflict.

Bethlehem was the better balanced eleven, but the marksmanship of the Steelmen left much to be desired. Fall River, handicapped through the absence of Harold Britten, played determinedly, and only the brilliance of Gow, goalie of Bethlehem, prevented the champions from at least sharing the points.

WEST WORKS OUT UNDER ROBINSON

Philadelphia, June 2.—Charley West, of Washington and Jefferson, winner of the pentathlon the last two years in the Pennsylvania relay carnival, is working out under the eye of Lawson Robertson, coach of the Olympic team, on Franklin Field.

West was graduated from Washington and Jefferson last week. Last Saturday he competed for W and J. for the last time in the Middle Atlantic championships.

He is a contender in the pentathlon division and is virtually assured of making the American team in this capacity, as he proved by winning the pentathlon trophy in the Penn relays for the last two years that he is one of the greatest all-around athletes in the country, batsmen want

HOLY CROSS TO PLAY TUFTS AT OVAL

The undefeated Holy Cross baseball nine invades Tufts Oval Wednesday afternoon to face Tufts for the second time this season. Jack Barry's champions, with a record of fourteen consecutive victories, are big favorites in the annual home contest with their Medford rivals.

Joe Kennealy

The Brown and Blue aggregation hope to put over the unexpected, but it will be a baseball miracle if the Medfordites are successful. In the first Holy Cross-Tufts contest at Worcester the Barry coached champions trounced the Jumbos and Tufts is out to get revenge.

It might be remembered that Jim Tunney, who is listed to start on the slab against Tufts, is just the kind of a twirler that the Tufts all-around athletes in the country, batsmen want.

If our Red Sox can continue m all the marble out of the trans ney will have to be counted red pennant contenders. If they can do a better than break even on ex arson, they'll be in there, and even that way right down to first snowfall.

From where we sat, the boys will few pretty well up around the for quite a while. They have redoubled power, and they have the winning habit and spirit, little essentials to glory that sometimes mean much more than class or pitching or anything else.

Any ball team that can complete what practically amounts to a fourth of a campaign and find itself parked within half a game of the title, has plenty of possibilities. Any team that can compile a winning streak of seven games, and then follow it along with another, straight of like a dozen, is not going to fade open. Our box have done well and should keep right on month of May, as enjoyed by Fools, was the greatest four ck stretch in the history of mod Boston baseball. The cub d 24 games over that stretch, on 17 of them. It was literal and figuratively, the merry ith. Anything like the same kind g June and the boys are likely to be playing right after the season closes—would serve stuff.

Candidly, the Sox don't seem to have enough outfield pitching department to finish one-two. But just as candidly, we didn't ever dream that they would be fighting the Yanks for the pinnacle when June brought its roses and new bunches of bills. You never can tell in this baseball, as Noah remarked when rain drowned out the original league.

Boston fans are with the Sox in spirit as they, the Sox, go into battle orchards to wage battle. They are all ready to be with the Braves at the same time. The Bancrofts, whose appendixes—if that's how to spell it—have now been unanimously removed, can expect to use their regular lineup quite regularly.

Their lack of average demands it, as Flo Ziegfeld, very good at figures, might say. And if the Braves can bang together for a couple of weeks at a time, they will furnish plenty of fireworks at the Wigwam. Regardless of the loss of Marquard and sundry other troubles, the team hasn't done so badly.

BRAVES WON HALF OF GAMES PLAYED IN WEST

Since the first day of May, when the boys went into the West some games were played. And the Brave won 12 of them. Champion clubs are supposed to be satisfied with an even break on the road, so you can see for yourself that the Allston Indians have their possibilities, too.

The opening series should be a rio anyhow. The Cincinnati Reds furnish the contention. And they have plenty to make them mad. The Redlegs were leading the parade when the Tribe reached Cincinnati. When said Tribe left, said Redlegs had been beaten four times in a row, and had skidded right off the top of the ladder. So they'll be paging revenge.

HOPKINS FIRST IN OLYMPIC BIKE TEST

Paterson, N. J., June 2.—Victor Hopkins, Davenport, Ia., flashed across the line first in the finals for placement on the American Olympic bicycle team, today, his time was 6 hours, 9 minutes, 21 4-5 seconds.

Ignatinus Gronkowski of Buffalo, N. Y., was second; John Beaucault, St. Louis, Mo., third, and Gus Hentchel, Chicago, fourth. They will represent the American team. The fifth man, Jimmy Armando of Hartford, Ct., will go with the team as alternate.

CHET ROCHE READY TO MEET BANTAMS

Marty Fitzpatrick doesn't care who the promoters select for Chet Roche, his fighting bantam, who floored Jimmy Wilde of Providence seven times in three rounds at Lynn. Marty says: "Get anybody up to 118 for Roche; Steve Gustin, Tarzy Parker, Johnny Harks, Mick McAdams, Willie Sbugrue, Abie Friedman, Jimmy Nee, Kid Rico or Carney."

3 POUNDS HOLD UP MALONE GO WITH MOODY

Frank Moody, youthful English middleweight, today looms forth as one of the most serious contenders for Harry Greb's middleweight championship. Moody has done some sensational fighting since his arrival in America.

Frank Moody

His most spectacular feat, of course, was his knockout of Lou Bogash in eleven rounds in Bridgeport, Boston and New England fans who have seen Bogash in h great battles in this city considered him almost beatable. They did not believe t was a middleweight who could knock him out.

Moody gained particular satisfaction in knocking out Bogash on account of the fact the latter outpointed him when he first came to America. Bogash also knocked the Englishman to the canvas on several occasions. Moody kept forereading a return tussle, finally was successful and then crashed through with his famous knockout.

Jackie Clark, veteran middleweight, was also stopped by Moody. This bout was staged at Fall River

PRINCETON AND PURPLE CLASH WITH CRIMSON

The Harvard nine looks upon the coming week as the most arduous in the year. A game with each of the two toughest colleges of the East is the schedule.

Wednesday, the Crimson hopefuls will play off a tie with the Princeton nine in Fenway Park, and on Saturday the fatigued Harvard men will meet Holy Cross.

Of course, with Big Three rivalry, Harvard-Princeton tradition, and all that the Princeton battle looms in the eyes of the Harvard men, but that does not necessarily mean the Holy Cross engagement is looked upon as a second-rate affair.

Spaulding

Holy Cross humbled Harvard in their first meeting this year, as usual, and Harvard has sworn to crack the Purple streak of victories.

The Princeton battle seems to be the crucial game for the Big Three title. Harvard upset the dope by beating Princeton in the first game, and Princeton likewise upset the said dope by taking the second. So it looks as though Wednesday's fray should be a hot one. Especially in view of the fact that Princeton has beaten Yale in their first engagement.

A victory over Harvard would just about clinch the title for Princeton. Conversely, a win for Harvard would restore much-needed confidence for the Yale series.

Spaulding and Caldwell will probably be the opposing pitchers. Spaulding won the first game, and Gastreau Caldwell the second. Both were pitcher's battles, so that both men will be out to demonstrate their individual superiority.

Harvard's outlook in the Holy Cross matter is not exactly rosy. Holy Cross continued on its merry way as sole undefeated college in the East by trounding Boston College in no undecisive manner last Saturday. With Carroll on the mound Holy Cross should take the Crimson easy into camp.

CRIQUI KNOCKED OUT BY DANNY FRUSH

Paris, June 2.—Danny Frush of Cleveland knocked out Eugene Criqui, former world's featherweight champion, in the eighth round at Buffalo Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Criqui had a slight advantage for the first seven rounds, but towards the end of the seventh he went down twice for the count of nine, only to be going sailing him from a knockout in the eighth. Criqui went down for the full count.

Ted "Kid" Lewis, the English welterweight, fought twelve round to a draw with Piet Hobin of Belgium in the semi final.

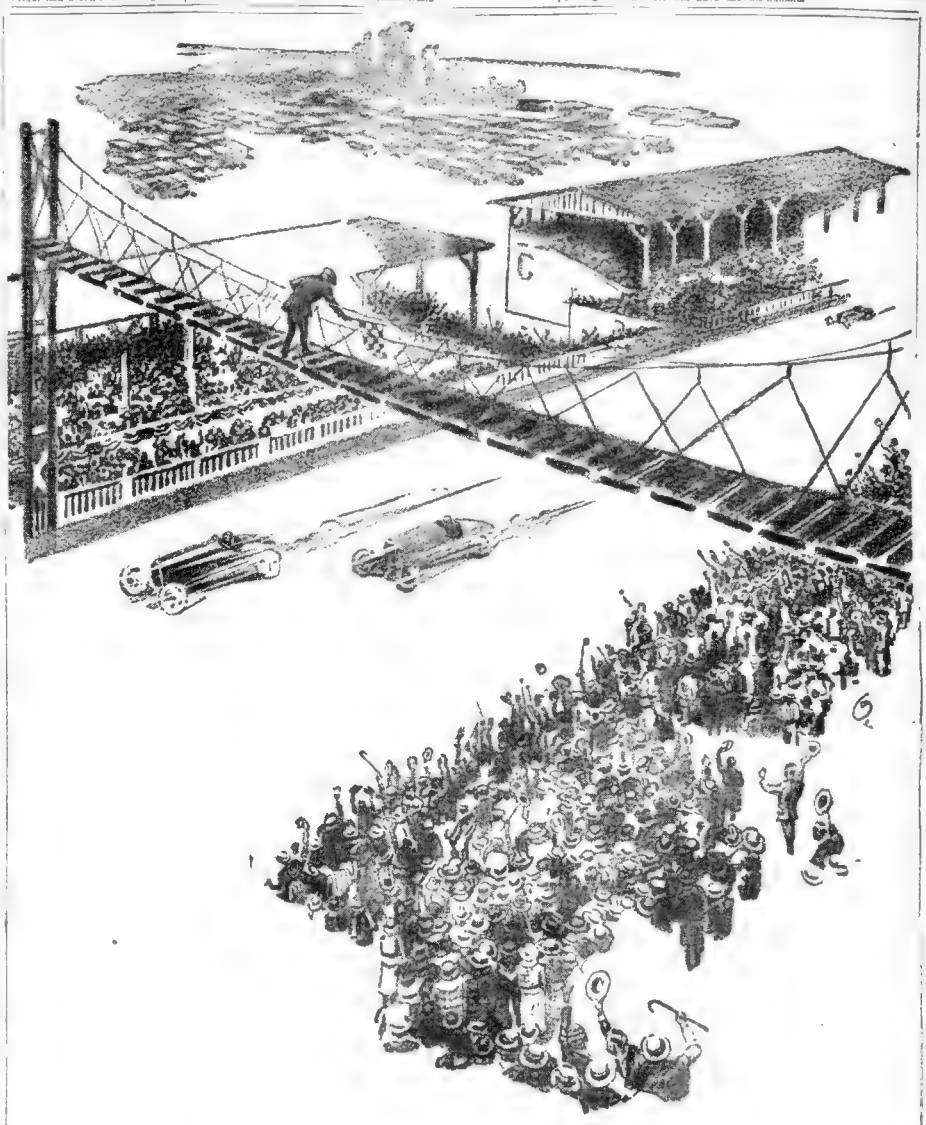
HARVARD ELECTS 2 SPORT TEAM LEADERS

Harvard Athletic Association has elected William W. Ingraham, of Oakland, N. J., junior, as captain of the varsity tennis team, and Allen F. Reed, of Livonia, N. Y., a sophomore, as captain of the varsity lacrosse team.

"POSS" MILLER MANAGES COLLEGIANS

Cape May, N. J., June 2—"Poss" Miller, former football captain of the University of Pennsylvania and member of the baseball team, will lead the Cape May Collegians the coming season. He will have the fastest team of college stars that has represented the Shore on the ball field in years.

The team will open the season on July 1. The Pennsylvania Giants of Atlantic City will be the opening attraction. The best nines in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York will play at the Shore during the Summer.



Such popularity must be deserved

OLD records to break, new ones to make! Grilling tests of speed, stamina, power! For the winner—popularity, hard-won and deserved.

So with everything else. To win popularity even a cigarette must deserve it.

Chesterfield, for example, has long been winning an average of over 1000 smokers a day.

One thing alone—Chesterfield's better taste—can account for such popularity.

Hail Summer

DRAWN BY WALT VAN ARSDALE

Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHAT joys [illegible] Summer offers! There's bathing in cool waters under a blue sky near golden sands. There's golf to be played on a course of endless green. And fishing, too! Riding on spirited horses over bridle paths along country roads that end [illegible] and miles [illegible] Then, there's tennis, in which love has its place even in the [illegible], but which, natural, holds interest for men and women [illegible] Yachting, canoeing who doesn't like to go boating on smooth, glassy lakes with just the soft ripple of the water and little else to be heard in the evening, [illegible] under a [illegible] moon in beautiful gardens close by the sea, with music and laughter and, maybe, love! All these Summer things—Hail!

CHICKIE

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

LITTLE Edward was two now, with black hair like Jimmy's and the merriest eyes. He like Chickie, and sat now on her lap, opening and shutting her purse, playing with the keys.

Mary said, hiding her eagerness:

"Not handsome, is he, Chickie? You know how I always wanted beauty? How I envied you? But personality is better, isn't it, in a man? The baby has that—don't you think so? That is—for a little fellow—"

The baby had succeeded in jangling the keys and piped in a glad, birdlike voice: "See! See! Mamma see!"

Mary's face glowed, but she feared Chickie would tease, and appeared not to notice.

Chickie lowered her head pretending to laugh against the baby's neck. She could scarcely breathe. There were questions she wished Mary to answer. She had tried several openings. Now she went in boldly.

"He's a love, Mary! A love. And you wouldn't give him up for a hundred lives, would you? Why, you're just blushing, you think he's so wonderful. Remember how we used to pity poor Lucy? Now that a child is the grandest thing in the world, don't you?"

"We don't know, Chickie. And four children in five years is no joke. I'll still hold that. Yet if I had to take my choice between four in a hurry or none at all, I'd take the four."

"They're worth as much as that Mary? Honestly?"

"Yes—they are."

"Always, Mary? Would you say they're worth a million or so that?"

"Yes, I would. That's mean work, but there's no joy in the world equal to them—"

"Equal to having a child, you mean." Her excitement was now so near to frantic she feared Mary would notice it. "I—I guess so—a lot that much always."

MARY WAS ALARMED with a deadly quiet: Mary FOR HOURS would Lily Tassman say to her?

The Mary shuddered. "Chickie! What makes you say that? 'the Awful—don't. I've just been sick, read me of that—"

e... "Yes, yes—Mary. Imagine it! Imagine what she suffered!"

and Mary kept repeating: "Yes—y awful! I can't understand it. A mo girl like that might know better. You'd think she could have done better—"

"Maybe she thought that, too Mary. Maybe she thought she was pretty clever."

"I suppose so. It's too horrible—"

"But it happens! Things like that happen, Mary—they do. You say it's horrible. But imagine how terrible to go and have yourself murdered! Imagine that! And all because she was going to have a child. She didn't dare! Janina says public opinion is the murderer. It is, isn't it? People wouldn't let her have the baby! They say she wandered like a crazy person about the streets. Oh, I think that's the cruelest thing! You have a child and it's the biggest joy in the world: it's a blessing. Hers is a crime! That's the horrible part of it—"

Mary stared in amazement. "For pity sakes, Chickie, what's the matter with you? Where on you get that stuff? Want the world to think like Janina and we'd have children born on the doorstep—"

"Any old one! Oh, Mary, a thing to say! It's the crime for married people to have children! But they are crowding the world out with them, are they? If they have two, why, they have a family! They're doing a great and glorious service to the race—"

Mary grinned. "True enough, true enough! You win! But at that, Chickie, do you think a girl like Lily Tassman, or any one, for that matter, has the right to bring a child here with no care for its future?"

"No. But it shouldn't be thought a crime, should it. She shouldn't be stoned to death, should she?"

"It is a crime, though. A child has certain rights. Life isn't so easy or delightful under the best conditions. We take a monstrous responsibility launching any one here—"

"Being married doesn't alter that, Mary—"

"Yes, it does. It gives two to meet the responsibility."

"Oh, Mary, suppose she'd died beforehand—suppose—if then there'd only be one to meet—"

"Well, you don't count on such a child has a right to live anyway, and to two parents."

"Oh yes! And if both parents should find a child an encumbrance! Lots of them don't get on. And if the father does, why can't the child, do we, and call it frightful names, and say it has no right to live"

She was straining forward, pressing Little Edward—a fetish to her eyes. Mary looked at her intently and the wild blood scattered across Chickie's face.

She tried to speak. Her lips worked. And suddenly she put the baby on the floor. She leaned against the wall and began to cry.

"Chickie! For the love of heaven!" Mary's arms were about her waist. Mary said, fearfully: "Chickie—why, what's the matter?"

"Nothing, Mary! Nothing. A terrible thing. I saw a terrible thing. Kathryn Armour happening to her bed. Oh—awful. She tried to commit suicide—"

"Kathryn Armour! Who is she?"

"You know—I told you you know—the new girl. She came to work last month—you know—"

"No—not didn't tell me. Having to the best? You saw her? Dead? why, did you see her?"

"No—she's going to—she. Oh, I went there. Just came from there this afternoon. We knew Janina and I knew something was wrong. When she didn't come to work we went to her room. We found her—like that. Oh, I can't get over it. That's what makes me feel so. I didn't mean to tell you."

"Lord! Oh, isn't that awful? She's going to have a child, Chickie?"

"Yes, she is. She told me and she told Janina. And then she got to brooding over it and what her mother and father would say. The dive in Middle. And what all her friends would say. So she tried to kill herself.

"And she'll try again. I know she will. But if people didn't look at it so—if they would let her have it and not think it such a crime, wouldn't that be better, Mary?"

Mary knelt suddenly. "Poor thing! You saw her? Is that frightful, Chickie? She's going to [illegible]

"You know [illegible] want to be one of her friends or would she be ashamed of her friends of old? And she'd have the child and hate her—"

"Yes, it will of course. Poor thing—too bad she didn't die [illegible] Now she has to [illegible] all—"

Chickie wiped her face. She stood at the mantel and powdered her nose. She said, "Get me a drink, Mary."

Her cheeks were white. They were very white. She followed Mary into the hall. She said, brokenly: "Yes—she would be better dead."

Chickie recalled with a quiver of alarm the intent amazement in Mary's face. She had almost given herself away, standing there against the wall—crying and making up that wild tale. She was afraid to meet Mary again.

The next afternoon, as she came from work, Tommy Blake stopped her. "Mother wants to see you, Cookie. Right away."

"Wants to see me! Why—"

"Search me! She told me to wait for you."

Chickie trembled. Did she know through the day-old [illegible] where she and Mary roamed and had a party [illegible] the sorrows that [illegible]

Why do you say that, [illegible] No one is ever better dead—"

"Mary thought so! Mary said it was a terrible crime to bring a child here without a father—"

"It is a terrible thing—"

"Well—" Chickie doubled her hands, driving the nails into her flesh. "Well—Kathryn was sweet. Oh—she would be good to it. She would love it. Why is it such a crime, Mrs. Blake, because Kathryn was to have a child and it's so wonderful that Mary has one? That's what made Kathryn [illegible] She loved the man; loved him terribly. She thought they had the right. I don't know—of course. But it seems queer that a thing can be so holy and beautiful when Mary [illegible] and hideous when Kathryn—

"And so Chickie. There is [illegible] and Marriage and [illegible] make an immoral thing and a some people seem to think. Is it instituted to safeguard the race—the child. We must do this—

MARTHA LEE'S RADIO CHATS ON COOKING

Broadcasted From Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, by Martha Lee.

I AM going to tell of ques[illegible] and suggestions [illegible]

[illegible] No. 1 from [illegible] asks if the recipe [illegible] for [illegible] should not [illegible] some butter in it? Many brownie recipes do have butter, but this particular recipe calls for none as the [illegible] chocolate and nut meats make it sufficiently rich. I hope that whenever there is any question about the recipes that you will always feel free to ask me about them.

The next letter comes from Hyde Park and asks for Sandwich Fillings. We have had two talks on these, the last one given May 27. This same friend asks for recipes for different ice creams and while it will be necessary to have a separate day for frozen desserts, I am glad to [illegible] a few good ones for the [illegible] almost as delicious as the [illegible] other than sherbets or ices.

THE automobile is the foe of walking and [illegible] of people are carried [illegible]

Dr. Mahoney

[illegible] automobile all the time. [illegible] muscles in good condition. Force the car for a time each day and get out and walk briskly for a mile or two. Likely, by doing, [illegible] ting along will bring all the muscles of your body into play. Then do your walking, examining a new spacing into shop windows. You might just as well stay in the automobile.

There are in Boston thousands of sufferers from constipation and the ills which result from a clogged system that could be cured if [illegible] would get out and walk every [illegible]

I hope the day is not [illegible] tant when every [illegible] country owns its own [illegible] most of them to move, [illegible] goodness sakes, remember [illegible] a purely health measure [illegible] should not become a bore [illegible]

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Will you please recommend some hospital, not too expensive—where I may go for an examination? MRS. S. C. J.

I would advise you to go to the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston Dispensary or one of the City Hospitals.

Will you please tell me what the salivary gland is and if it is dangerous? My husband has a swollen neck for the past four months. MRS. P. H. M.

Arlington.

I think that you probably mean "salivary glands." They are to be found in the neck and are [illegible] called. They are nothing to be [illegible] dig, one of three glands may become inflamed. For example, mumps is a parotid gland [illegible] and [illegible] some "parrots" or mumps. [illegible] probably went around [illegible] your husband's system [illegible] would of the cause was possible [illegible] bring about a cure.

I was born with the eyes of an old woman. They are deep and dark circled. All my life have had good color. Can you tell me what I can do for my eyes! MRS. A.

There is nothing which can be done to improve the set of your eyes [illegible] ought not to worry about [illegible] tion, but should feel [illegible] that your health and color [illegible] head.

Have been suffering with asthma for about 18 years. Am about 60 years of age. Have gone to quite a few doctors, but to no avail. MRS. M. E. K.

Would suggest that you have a vaccine made and try it as this expensive work is often followed by excellent results in cases of asthmatic type.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE greatest optimists in the world are people who go into photograph studios to have their pictures taken. Their faces enters the camera sour and yet they expect it to come out sweet.

A WISE photographer will always make a picture looks as much unlike you as possible.

OF course you have to pay for this service, otherwise he'll give you a perfect likeness.

NO man wants to put a cheap-looking face into an expensive frame.

WHEN you send a [illegible] tograph for her birthday you don't want it to [illegible] she'll hang it up.

ONE guy sent his [illegible] of himself and she put it [illegible] ettle to scare the mice away.

IF a man's portrait looks like him he's disappointed. If a woman's picture looks like her she's insulted.

SHE makes the photographer keep on taking pictures until none of them resemble her in the [illegible]

ONE woman got sore because [illegible] of her chins showed in the picture.

SHE blamed this on the photographer instead of nature.

SHE expected him to cut out in ten minutes something that the beauty parlors have been trying for six years to get rid of.

ONE chin is bad enough, especially if a woman keeps it going all the time.

HE told her that if she could keep still for a few seconds that maybe none of her chins would show in the picture.

WHEN she got the proofs there was such a remarkable resemblance that she refused to pay for them.

IF you happen to have a face that no photographer can help, then the best thing to do is to get somebody else to sit for your portrait.

treat Mongolian superstitions diplomatically, should be able to recruit, if ever needed, fierce fighting men among those [illegible] milking worshippers of a living idol.

And Russian statesmen have proved, at the famous conference in Italy and elsewhere, that they do not lack diplomatic intelligence.

THEY WILL admit doubtless that Buddha, at birth, sits suspended in the air without support and delivers a sermon, that his thrice happy mother enters straight into Nirvana, and that the real religion was established by the great Gotama, when he got sick of his palaces, his wife and concubines, and wandered off to set a good example.

HERE, WHERE we have no living Buddha, but seven political parties that are just about as good, we are preparing our United States "Hourouidan" to select the White House Buddha for the next four years. Occasionally we get a four-year Buddha, through whom we are ruled by high priests of finance.

PRESIDENT BURTON, of the University of Michigan, chosen to nominate Coolidge, is an American citizen of the old fashioned type, more than six feet tall, an earnest, effective speaker. President Coolidge's advisers made a good choice. If the Democrat ticket should be McAdoo and Al Smith? Good! Idea would need all his friends—especially with La Follette warbanding.

LADY DIANA MANNERS, whose married name is Lady Duff Cooper and whose mother is the Duchess of Rutland, has returned to London and is telling her compatriots that we are charming, but drink a great deal too much. The United States can only reply, "Dear lady, we know it. Come back and help us."

WE DO DRINK a great deal of the wrong kind of drink. When the Duchess of Rutland was with us Daughter at the Ambassador Hotel in New York, she complained that it was hard to get any really good claret.

You can blame her for drinking her head off—rather over a nation that consumes itself to bootleg gin at 1 a. m.

If the empress had taken the advice given by Thomas Jefferson more than a hundred years ago, and drunk a good deal of gin and whiskey, we probably have taken, while encouraging light wines and beers, which the world's temperate countries use freely.

Perhaps we shall come around to Jefferson's plan eventually. But it won't happen for twenty or thirty years.

KIDDING

Many folks kid themselves into believing that they've had a good time, until they take a look at the taxi clock.

Some people would like to pass a law against Youth having more than one half of one per cent kick in it.

Mary is now commuting, and she calls her rayon stockings her "garden hose."

Dame Rumor still dresses in the latest style.

When Adam and Eve fell out, he probably exclaimed: "O, applesauce."

A New Jersey stretch of water has been renamed Mosquito Lake by a group of fishermen because "you're always bound to get a bite."

Europeans say they can detect an American over there right away. Wouldn't it be funny if they mistook one of their own for an American and gypped him the way they do the Americans?

The easiest way to kill two birds with one stone is when the stone happens to be an engagement ring.

There is a growing possibility of a third party, but it is intimated there is a doubt whether there is enough oil to go around for oil.

She wielded a shingle prodigiously. A trunk strap she also could fix. My mother hit strong. Whenever I went wrong.

And I learned about women from her.

3-MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

THE tiny town of Pozzuoli, Italy, is a favorite watering place for the residents of Naples now as it was several centuries before Christ, but its chief claim to fame is the ruined Temple of Serapis.

This religious edifice was built by the Greeks in the days of Pompeii. The inhabitants of Naples were ordinary Greeks, and even after it became a Roman city its Greek individuality was pronounced.

Serapis was a Greek-Egyptian divinity, a sort of cross between Pluto and Osiris, and in Egypt the rites were dark and mysterious, while the Greek adaptation was mild and beautiful.

This temple was built close to the ocean. During a volcanic convulsion on that part of Italy the ocean rose in a great tidal wave and the land settled. When things were again serene, the Temple of Serapis was at the bottom of the sea and an entirely new shore line, a quarter of a mile inland, had been established.

For many centuries fishermen got their lines entangled in the pillars and debris of the ruins, and marine creatures burrowed where Greek priests had made sacrifices and priestesses had danced before the altar of the god.

About 200 years ago the sea gradually began to recede from the land by imperceptible degrees. In various parts of Italy what had been harbors was dry land, and the thrifty Italian farmers immediately added it to their fields.

For more than 100 years the Temple of Serapis has been entirely out of water and its ruins may be seen on the shore. It is supposed to be the only example in the world of a building which has been submerged a couple of thousand years, emerging again on the shore.

The town of Pozzuoli has changed its location somewhat through the centuries, but it has lost most of its population and importance. It is of [illegible] importance in the Italian concrete trade, for the pozzolana, or volcanic earth, which is used in making hard concrete and cement.

There are also several mineral baths which are considered of great value for medicinal purposes and to which people resort from all parts of Italy.

Wants to Help in Return

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me some poor person's name who would like a brand new pair of oxfords, size 4? You helped me, and I want to help the Helping Hand in return. If you ever get a coat for my father-in-law, will you please remember him, size 42? Send the name of [illegible] size, and I will pay the parcel post on them. MRS. C. L. G.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. A. E. P. the only one at present on our list with such small feet.

Things for Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you give me the name of some needy person who has a young baby. I may have things from time to time which my baby has outgrown. Preferably some widow in the vicinity of Brighton, Allston, Needham, Waltham. MRS. M. D. M.

Thank you for this and your previous offers. We have sent you the address of Mrs. J. O'B, who, although not a widow, is in need, as her husband has been out of work, and her two youngest are babies 9 and 20 months old.

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a lot of blouses and separate skirts, also three or four dresses for a girl of high school age, say 12 to 14 years of age. I would like these to go to some very needy family, where they would be appreciated, as they are all in good condition, ready to put right on and wear. My girl is a junior in high school and would be wearing them except she has outgrown them. MRS. M. N. B.

Thank you. The things you offer will be just fine for Mrs. B. E. M.'s oldest girl, and we have sent you her address.

Baldwin, Can and Steel Are Leaders in Slight Rally After Heavy Start

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Business men have been disappointed and depressed by politics more than by any other thing. Let us examine the state of mind of the "typical" business man in this part of the country—although of course, there is no such thing as a "typical" business man when it comes to political views:

"I am disgusted. I am disgusted at most of the Republican as well as most the Democratic politicians who have been bedevilling things at Washington. I want, next November, to endorse President Coolidge, but I don't want to endorse those who have refused to follow his leadership.

"Nor do I want to endorse the Democrats after what they have done to prevent the country from reaping the benefits of real tax reform. 'A plague o' both your houses.' I say. If the self-seekers I have decided me once and more, I would even flirt with the idea of voting for La Follette, not because I want him, but just to express my disgust with the other two main parties have been bungling things at Washington.

"Has Congress touched a single thing that it hasn't messed up?

"Its handling of the Japanese problem is a shining example of how to do the right thing in the wrong way. Everybody favored keeping out the yellow races; but why not go about it in the right way instead of the wrong way? I hear that, as a result, Japan is not to buy more lumber from Pacific Coast States, but is to direct all her business to British Columbia.

"The bonus has been made nothing but a political football. As finally passed, it is sure to be as disgusting to most of those receiving it as it is to those who have opposed adding several more billions to the taxpayers' burdens.

"But the booby prize goes to Congress for the way it has played fast and loose with Mellon's plan for tax reform. One of his main aims was to induce our richest citizens to invest more of their money in business enterprises and less of it in tax-exempt securities. The mongrel measure that finally came from Congress fails miserably to effect that big purpose. Instead of scientific tax reduction, Congress indulged in chicanery. In some respects the new tax bill is worse than the old.

"The railroads have been kept grossly busy. They have been threatened with drastic rate reductions.

"It isn't much comfort to the workman who is paid off or who has his wages or hours reduced to be told that the blame lies with the politicians. But the chances all are that between now and November a lot of workmen will want to make politicians pay dear their worst to bring on poor times. Wage-cutting has set in at various places, and I am told that at some of the cotton mills operating in the South conditions are becoming deplorable, because the idle cotton workers have nowhere else to turn for work. According to the iron trade papers, Pennsylvania coke workers have had their pay cut severely. One steel mill has also started cutting.

"It is too bad, for I am confident that if Congress had behaved itself sensibly and done its level best to keep pay envelopes full, this country now would be in tip-top shape."

Yes, it is too bad, for there is everywhere a deep yearning to do a good business and to keep employes working full time. Americans hate pessimism. They like inaction. They hate curtailment. They want always to go ahead—to do bigger and bigger things.

Happily, things in this country often change for the better very suddenly.

FRESH LOW FOR REPUBLIC IRON & STEEL

Baldwin, American Can and U. S. Steel were leaders in a slight rally that followed a heavy start in New York Stock Exchange trading. Republic Iron & Steel set a fresh low for the year.

In the afternoon Pullman rose over 2 points, as did also Famous Players. Willys-Overland pfd. was off over a point. Woolworth (old) moved 3. Stewart-Warner lifted a point. Most changes were small and the market was very quiet.

In the forenoon intermittent selling brought about recessions in Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, International Paper and Crucible preferred. Public Service of New Jersey continued its recent rise, attaining the year's best level at 47¾.

Pittsburgh & West Virginia preferred touched a 1924 top price at 54½, and led some of the rails, including Lackawanna and Canadian Pacific, into higher ground. Call money opened at 3 per cent.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, American Telephone and the rights both took new positions. Quincy Mining pfd. was up 1½. General Electric dipped 1½, while United Fruit ran off 3.

BUILDING NEED IN NEW ENGLAND GREAT

Need for new construction is still great, according to opinions expressed by Greater Boston builders generally.

General Manager March C. Bennett of Samuel Cabot, Inc., manufacturing chemists, tells the financial editor of the Boston American:

"In the building business, for which most of our goods are sold, we look on a continued large volume during the balance of 1924 but perhaps slightly diminishing. Confidence in the country's industrial construction, is far from catching up with the war deficit."

Arthur Whitman, head of the Commonwealth Shoe & Leather Co., Whitman, says: "We look for a rather quiet summer for the balance of this year. While the spring business has been greatly handicapped by many factors, the purchasing power of the public is partly responsible for the rather slack trade particularly in men's shoes. It seems likely that until some events happen which might stimulate the buyers of men's wear, the feeling of the public that the merchandise offered them is very favorably priced or exceptionally good, will continue. The buying power of the people is thereby better-fed."

GREENE CANANEA DEFICIT IS LOWER

Report of Greene-Cananea Copper Co. for 1923 shows net loss before depreciation and depletion of $155,-032 compared with loss of $1,410,646 in preceding year and loss of $2,465,-091 in 1921.

First Quarter Earnings

Forty-nine important industries which have made first quarter earnings reports to date show greater total net income than for the first quarter of 1923.

Hartland, Me., Bonds

Hartland, Me., has awarded $30,000 4½ school bonds, dated May 1 and maturing 1934 to 1948 inclusive, to Harris, Forbes & Co. at 103.38.

GRAUSTEIN ELECTED INT. PAPER HEAD

As forecast to Boston American readers early last week, A. R. Graustein of the Boston law firm of Ropes, Gray, Boyden & Perkins, has been elected president of International Paper Co., succeeding Philip T. Dodge, who was elected chairman of the board, a newly created office, at directors' meeting Thursday.

SHOE AND LEATHER FAILURES FALL OFF

Failures, embarrassments, etc., in the shoe, leather and kindred lines in the United States and Canada for the past week, as compiled by the Shoe & Leather Mercantile Agency, numbered 37, against 48 for the preceding week, and 31 for the corresponding period of 1923.

MATHIESON PAYS ON BACK DIVIDENDS

Mathieson Alkali declared dividend of 1¾ per cent. against back dividends on preferred and regular 1¼ per cent. on preferred both payable July 1 to stock of record June 20. This leaves only 1¾ per cent. back dividends unpaid.

PRICES ARE BETTER FOR COTTON GOODS

Fairchild cotton goods index shows a further slight gain for week ended May 31, to 13.723, against 13.673 the previous week. This is the first time this year that the index has advanced two weeks in succession.

Continental Motors

Continental Motors Corporation for six months ended April 30, 1924, reports net profit of $1,430,646 after interest and depreciation, but before Federal tax, against $398,267 in the first half of 1923.

Dividend Reduced

Celluloid Co. declared quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. on common, payable June 30 to stock of record June 10. Previously 1½ per cent. quarter has been paid.

SHIPPING BOARD IS BLAMED FOR LOSS

Serious competition from government-owned steamships, operated regardless of financial results, was blamed for the poor showing of the International Mercantile Marine Co. in 1923, by P. A. S. Franklin, president, in a report to stockholders today.

Mr. Franklin estimated that operations of the company and its subsidiaries, the American Line, Red Star Line, White Star Line-Atlantic Transport Line and Leyland Line, would result in a deficit for the year of $1,889,921, exceeding the 1922 deficit by about $400,000. On the Pacific Dodge dividends received from subsidiaries, however, the company will have an estimated surplus for 1923 of $4,583,582, as compared with $3,699,749 in 1922.

MERGED CONCERNS HAVE RECORD TRADE

With the merger of Public Service Electric & Gas Co., Public Service Gas Co. and United Electric Co. of New Jersey, the new company, known as Public Service Electric & Gas Co., will have more customers, it was said, than any other public operating company engaged in the gas and electric business, with a total on May 1 of 1,065,000 customers.

PENNSYLVANIA HAS GAIN FOR QUARTER

Net operating income of $7,138,264 reported by the Pennsylvania Railroad for April decreased $908,166 from the same month last year, but the total of $25,702,606 for the first four months of 1924 showed a gain of $656,920 over the corresponding period of 1923. Gross revenues in the four months dropped to $226,824,008 from $241,076,727 a year ago.

ST. JOSEPH LEAD DIVIDEND DOUBLED

St. Joseph Lead declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable September 20 to stock of record September 9. In previous quarters dividends were 25 cents regular and 25 cents extra.

TRAVEL BRIEFS

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

By TOMMY TRAVELER

On June 10, 17, 24, and each Tuesday thereafter, except July 1, the new oil burning S. S. Berkshire, of the Merchants and Miners Line will sail from Boston to Norfolk, thence to Baltimore. On July 1 the Berkshire will sail from Boston to Philadelphia. She is an oil burning ship, equipped with ocean steamer comforts and conveniences. Staterooms may be obtained en suite or single, with or without private baths. Every stateroom has outside room and has Pullman berths, electric lights, running hot and cold water, thermostat and telephone.

The Merchants and Miners also have inaugurated a service which commenced May 29, for June only, from Boston to Norfolk, thence to Philadelphia, thence to Boston. The time limit for return will be June 30, from Philadelphia. The fare will be $42.00 for the round trip, from Boston, Norfolk or Philadelphia. This is a first class ship with main deck stateroom accommodations. Stopover privileges at Norfolk and Philadelphia will be allowed on final passage tickets, thus permitting a sojourn at Norfolk or her beaches, as well as visits to Philadelphia or Atlantic City and other New Jersey resorts.

This gives the tourist 190 glorious hours at sea. Sailings from Boston are on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and if the Thursday sailing is chosen, only extra expense incurred is during a layover of one day at Philadelphia.

A trip that you will find brimful of pleasure and benefit.

DE LUXE TRAIN BETWEEN WASHINGTON AND MONTREAL.

The Delaware & Hudson & Hartford Railroad announced today the inauguration of a new all steel train between Washington and Montreal via Quebec, commencing Sunday, June 15. The train northbound will be known as "The Montrealer."

This new train will be operated via the famous Hell Gate Bridge Route, "The Lake Champlain" will provide sleeping cars between Washington and Montreal, Washington and Quebec, New York and Montreal, New York and Quebec; dining car, Washington and Springfield; dining car, Washington and New York, and coaches, Washington and Montreal.

The through direct service offers the public a most attractive and picturesque route from the Capitol City and the largest city of Canada. Montreal has a population of 900,000 and is also the second largest port of North America. There are many sights to visit in Montreal—the magnificent Notre Dame Church, the old historic Chateau de Ramezay, Bon Secours, McGill University, Mount Royal, after which the city is named; the old historic Jesuit Church, beautiful parks, charming suburbs, the docks, the French section, etc.; enough to keep one occupied and entertained for days.

"COLORADO UNDER THE TURQUOISE SKY."

Is the title of an attractive booklet just published by the Rock Island Lines. The author, who lives for many years in Colorado, describes in an interesting manner, and with the scenic attractions of that State, including Rocky Mountain National Park, Denver and the Mountain Parks region, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak region, San Isabel Forest and Mesa Verde National Park, etc. The Grand Canyon, probably the brief description is given of the central part of the State, known as the "Back Range," comparatively unknown to the tourist.

The booklet is bound in a handsome four-color cover, which unfolds like a fan, showing the scenic and characteristic of the Rockies. Copy of the booklet will be mailed free upon application to Mr. E. R. Hines, Rock Island Lines, Old South Building, Boston.

MARSTERS TOURS OPENS UP NEW BUSINESS OFFICE.

The Tourist Agency of George E. Marsters, Inc., 248 Washington street, Boston, with offices at the Prince George Hotel, has leased and various agents and correspondents throughout the United States, have opened up a new uptown office in the Washington Hotel, Copley Square, Boston. Mr. Albert E. Dauphines is in charge and steamship, railroad reservations and tours of all kinds will be handled from this section of the city by the Hotel Westminster, Inc., says.

EUROPEAN TOUR AT REASONABLE RATE.

Passengers desiring to go to Europe during the summer will probably be interested in the service offered by the Holland-American Line steamers via Boulogne-sur-Mer (France). The third class rate from New York to Boulogne-sur-Mer is $90. A variety of wholesome, appetizing food in abundance and well served, is provided, comfortable rooms for two, four and six passengers, and scrupulous cleanliness in all departments. Only three and one-half hours to Paris, and from Paris quick, through trains to all points in Europe.

Education—the First Duty of Government

The Most Important Institutions in the Country Are the Public Schools—the Gymnasiums of Human Brains

We wish to discuss with our readers the great and serious question of education.

It is a question as broad as the ocean and as deep. It is a question so vast that organized discussion of it seems hopeless.

The greatest minds of the world have devoted their powers to the intricate question of development of the human brain and the problem has been scarcely touched.

The greatest works on education in the history of the world are undoubtedly Plato's "Republic," Spencer's "Education" and Rousseau's "Emile." The last is the greatest of all. It should be read by every father and mother and by every earnest citizen.

Other works that may be earnestly recommended are Aristotle's "Politics," Pestalozzi's "How Gertrude Teaches Her Children" and Froebel's "Education of Man."

To Rousseau undoubtedly belongs the high honor of having thought and written most powerfully, most originally and most practically on the greatest of problems. His brain is the corner-stone of the structure of intelligent educational methods.

He foreshadowed in his "Emile" Fourier's splendid principle of "attractive industry."

THE PROGRESS OF HUMANITY DEPENDS UPON THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE HUMAN BRAIN THROUGH EDUCATION.

The intricate processes of thinking separate mankind from other members of the animal creation.

Man is far from the animal in proportion as his brain is cultivated. Even the animals themselves rank in their kingdom in proportion to their brain activity.

William T. Harris said truly: "If man had let himself alone he would have remained the monkey that he was. Not only this, but if the monkey had let himself alone he would have remained a lemur, or a bat, or a bear, or some other creature that now offers only a faint suggestion of what the ape has become."

The elephant and the ape, among our humble animal brothers, appear to have reached their limits of possibility in the way of educational development. They still remain, and always will remain, vastly inferior to their microscopic comrades—the ants and bees and other insects.

The human race has barely begun the systematic study of the problem of application, and systematic application of the truth discovered and agreed upon. In proportion to our stature and possibilities we are hideous ignoramuses compared with the ant in the garden path.

The education of children is regulated not by their brain formation and possible development, but by the wealth of their parents, the parsimony of municipalities, the baleful influences of tradition and the colossally stupid idea that thorough brain cultivation is in some way antagonistic to material success.

The greatness of a nation depends upon the average mental power of the nation's citizens, and mental power depends absolutely upon education.

The man who doubts the importance of educating his son thoroughly—if any such man now exists—is invited to consider the following brief statement of facts:

The holders of slaves in the Southern States and outside of America desired to keep their slaves down. They wanted them to be content with slavery. They wanted them and their children to remain willing, humble, helpless machines.

THEY PUNISHED AS A CRIMINAL ANY MAN WHO TAUGHT A SLAVE TO READ. THEY KNEW THAT SLAVERY AND EDUCATION COULD NOT LONG ENDURE IN THE SAME HUMAN BEING.

The ignorant man who has succeeded through natural force and lucky opportunity is fond of asking these questions: "What is the good of education? Of what practical use is scientific knowledge?" These men are admirably answered by Herbert Spencer, to whose work they are referred.

A collection of Englishmen ruined themselves in the sinking of mines in search of coal. They might have saved their money had they known that a certain fossil which they dug up in abundance belongs to a geological stratum below which no coal is ever found. They went on digging cheerfully and wasting their money. An acquaintance with that fossil and its meaning would have saved their cash.

Some individuals spent one hundred thousand dollars trying to save the alcoholic by-product that distills from bread in baking. They would have saved their money had they known that only a hundredth part of the flour is changed through fermentation.

The study of biology is essential in the successful fattening of cattle.

An "entozoon" seems to the practical man a foolish, imaginary creature. But millions of sheep have been saved by the discovery that one of these fancy scientific entozoa, pressing on the brain, caused the sheep's death. When you know the entozoon you can dig him out and save the sheep's life.

"My son's going to be an artist," says one proud father. "He does not need to study a lot of scientific rubbish."

This parent does not know that the difference between a good and a bad sculptor or painter is often based on knowledge or ignorance of anatomy and mechanical principles.

Education is important to the individual because it means development of the brain, development of capacity for production, and increased chances of success.

EDUCATION IS IMPORTANT TO THE STATE BECAUSE IT MEANS NOT ONLY COMPETENT CITIZENS, BUT MORAL CITIZENS.

The animal in us yields to the influence of education. Knowledge and brutality are enemies. They do not dwell together.

The most important institutions in this country are the public schools—the gymnasiums of human brains. The most important citizens of the nation are the teachers.

The greatest criminals are the employers of child labor, because they deny education, cut down in childhood the citizen's chance of progress and success.

Work and vote for more and better public schools.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

"DYING for love" used to be the most popular way of expressing devotion; but nowadays "killing for love" appears to be the favorite diversion.

Nearly every day some woman takes out her trusty little revolver and sends a man into Eternity "because she loved him so."

Or a man wraps half a pound of poisoned candy in pink tissue paper and mails it to his wife—for love!

Helen Rowland

There seems to be NOTHING one will not do for love!

More crimes have been committed in the name of love" than in the names of liberty, justice, honor and Ma Jong all put together.

* * *

"LOVE," alas, seems to be the great human ALIbi for doing anything selfish, wicked or unlovable, that happens to strike the fancy.

* * *

There are at least seventeen ways of "murdering for love;" and of these the most humane are the old-fashioned methods of using ground glass, bullets and Paris green.

* * *

The victim of sudden death has only a moment's realization of what's happening to him; whereas the world is full of men and women who are being killed by slow torture "for love."

* * *

There is the man who is gradually strangled to death with devotion or suffocated with kisses; and there is the woman who is starved to death with neglect or frozen to death with indifference, while her husband "toils to buy her baubles."

* * *

Many wives are slowly cut to death with criticism "for their own good." And many husbands are bullied to death by spouses who insist on overseeing their diet and mapping out their daily lives.

* * *

Lots of men sigh bitterly that they are being talked to death by adoring wives. And lots of women admit that they are being secretly bored to death by husbands who sink into a coma immediately after dinner.

* * *

You can work a husband to death to pay for your imported frocks and bridge losses—or you can wear him to death by dragging him out to dancing parties every evening after a hard, long day.

* * *

These are the favorite "slow-torture" methods of killing for love, and there is no limit to their "refined cruelty."

* * *

But, why, oh, WHY, do they call it "LOVE?"

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

MY heart is soft, I cannot bear
To hear a tale of woe, and when a brother's bowed with care my tears are sure to flow. Most every chap who rambles by and speaks a touching piece can make me wipe my streaming eye and beg of him to cease. From sight of grief I turn away and, cowardlike, decamp: I furnish easy prey each day for some designing tramp.
They blithely get my hard-earned cash and taste for parts unknown, while I, perforce, must dine on hash and otherwise atone for sprees of wild extravagance for dollars handed out so ragged men may have a chance to roam and rove about. I know when wiser fellows feel impelled to succor need they give the pitiful appeal but very little heed. We hard-luck story moves their hearts, they give no railroad fare to wanderers from foreign parts with long, untended hair. And when one claims he must depart for some far-distant State, they give no shekels for the start, but just investigate. They are not moved to maudlin tears, they don't dispurse a yen till, searching records back for years, they find deserving men. Such folks have found the proper way, the method sure and sure: they know what all statistics say about the worthy poor.
But when a hungry boy comes by and tells his tale to me, I set him down to apple pie and barn and homing. It is a sad mistake, no doubt, as wise men's records show, but when a fellow's down and out, I simply can't say "No."

For Little Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a number of dresses, three pairs of shoes, etc., that would help some little girl four or five years old. Also a few blouses to fit a boy of seven or eight, and a woman's house dress, size 36; a heavy skirt and loose coat that would do to wear around. I will gladly send these parcel post if you will send the address of any who can use them. I wrote before and received no reply. MRS. W. J. T.

Many thanks for writing again. We try awfully hard to answer every letter from every kind person who offers help, but sometimes we do slip, and we do appreciate your writing again. You are being forwarded the address of a poor family who will be grateful for these things.

Offers Knitting Yarn

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some knitting yarn, not all one, but good, different colors, which I would be glad to send to someone who might use it for knitting squares for a blanket. There is probably enough to make a blanket for a crib. MRS. E. G. B.

Thank you. We don't want to send this to someone who doesn't know how to knit, so we are going to hold it for replies.

Deadly Weapons

Editor American:

Dr. Crane in his article on the sale of deadly weapons says no one should be allowed by law to carry a gun who is not authorized by law to take human life.

Why not prohibit the automobile? It certainly is a great help to the bank robber, the hold-up man and the bootlegger. All of these are potential murderers.

Over four and a half million sportsmen took out licenses last year. This did not include those who did their shooting on their own land. These men are owners of deadly weapons of all kinds and I challenge Dr. Crane or anyone else to find a more law-abiding class of men anywhere.

If a man wants to commit murder or any other crime the lack of a revolver or pistol certainly will not stop him.

Let the responsible citizen carry a gun and the activities of the crook will take a decided drop. T. C. J.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON MARKS OF ELECT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THESE are some of the marks of the Elect, the Chosen People, the true Aristocracy, the real Upper Class.

They are clean. They keep their bodies clean of dirt, their minds clean of prejudice and their spirits clean of superstition. They have strong passions, strictly disciplined.

Their mind is clearest and their courage highest in the presence of danger. While they may not always think correctly, they think clearly.

They do right because it is a pleasure, and have passed the apprenticeship of struggle.

Their opinion of belief cannot be coerced by authority or seduced by desire. Their intellect is as ethical as their conduct.

Love is the greatest thing in the world; but to them there is a greater thing—loyalty.

They are efficient. They make good; they do not explain why they could not.

To their employed they are just and reasonable; to their employer they are intelligently obedient.

They regulate themselves strictly; they have no wish at all to regulate others.

They love people, learn something from everyone they meet, and despise no human being.

They are characterized by simplicity in dress, in speech, in house and at table. They understand the vulgarity of luxury.

They seek justice as the true charity, paying fair wages rather than giving alms, changing evil economic conditions rather than doling bread.

They bear no grudges and never seek revenge.

Their superiority is never exclusive; the greater, stronger and better they become, the more warmly human they grow.

These are the Elect.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON CEPHEID STARS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE most remarkable in many respects of all stars are the so-called "Cepheids," which are suns of gigantic size undergoing very great changes of brightness in average periods of less than a week. The North Pole star is a Cepheid, but its changes are uncommonly slight. The type star of the class is Delta, in the constellation Cepheus.

Astronomers have been much puzzled to account for the behavior of these strange stars, all of which are "giants," many times larger than our sun. At first they thought that the Cepheids were "eclipsing variables," i. e., bright stars with dark companions revolving close around them and producing an eclipse in every revolution.

The spectroscope showed the existence of alternate to and fro motions in the Cepheids, and such motions would occur in a rapidly revolving binary star. But it was soon noticed that the variations of brightness, though keeping step with the changes of motion, did not occur at the right points in the supposed revolution.

Finally, Harlow Shapley suggested the remarkable theory, which is now widely adopted as most probably correct, that the Cepheids are "pulsating stars," alternately dilating and contracting to such an extent that their diameters change by millions of miles in a few days!

If this is so, some of these wonderful stars may increase their diameters in a week or less by an amount several times greater than the entire diameter of our sun. Great changes of temperature, of course, accompany these alterations of diameter, which involve rapid variations of density.

The temperature fluctuation carries the stars from one stellar class into another and then back again. Thus Delta Cephei belongs to the class Fo when at its maximum brightness, but a few nights later, when at its minimum, it sinks into class G2, a much cooler type of star. By the way, G is the class to which our sun belongs.

By Shapley's theory, when a Cepheid dilates, its surface is upheaved radially, and so, of course, pushed out rapidly toward an observer on the earth, or anywhere else in space. The dilation is accompanied by increase of temperature, and the star grows brighter.

In the case of Delta Cephei itself the radius (half-diameter) of the star is estimated at 15,000,000 kilometers, or, say, 9,300,000 miles, and the semi-amplitude of the pulsation, or oscillation of diameter, is 9 per cent of the radius, causing a movement toward the observer on the earth of 850,000 miles in about 64½ hours, or 13,130 miles per hour, not much less than four miles per second.

Then, after the extreme dilation is reached, the star shrinks with equal rapidity, the motion, like that of the dilation, being betrayed by the shifting of the lines in the spectrum of the star's light—toward the red end when it is contracting and toward the violet when it is expanding.

It is an interesting fact that the Cepheids, though found as single, scattered stars, like Delta Cephei, and Polaris, are very abundant in the great globular star-clusters. It is also remarkable that in globular clusters the Cepheids that have equal periods of light variations are also equal in mean brightness. If this apparent law of dependance of absolute luminosity upon variation periods holds for all Cepheids, no matter where they are in the sky, then they become standards for estimating star distances.

Once-Overs

CONVINCE THOSE WHO COULD HELP YOU THAT YOU ARE WORTHY OF HELP.

Get out of that gloomy way if yours.

Many things have gone wrong, perhaps, but being downcast and discouraged is not going to help matters.

You are thinking that some of your relatives or your friends should come to your rescue and give you a boost, and you are sitting back, waiting for it.

As long as you could make more effort yourself, and don't, they won't help.

Isn't that about the attitude they are taking?

Your relatives and friends like a fighter—one who will not bow to defeat.

They might feel like getting back of a man who will not stay whipped.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that those whom you believe able to help you would be reluctant to do so, if they feel that there are things which you could do for yourself if you would?

If you will not stand up and battle for yourself, anything they might do for you would be lost, for the successful man meets and conquers.

If you are in hard luck, first convince those who might help you that you are willing to get back of yourself.
